

OFFICER HERO; MOTHER JAILED

Baby Falls Onto Freeway, Lives

An 18-month-old baby miraculously escaped serious injury Friday when he fell 25 feet from his mother's arms on a Los Angeles Civic Center bridge to the Santa Ana Freeway below.

The child tumbled in front of a car driven by Police Sgt. John Rice, who slammed on his brakes, stopped five feet in front of the baby and carried it to the side of the road.

The child's mother, Mrs. Esther Aguirre, was booked on suspicion of attempted murder.

She told police she tripped while crossing the Spring Street overpass and the baby fell out of her arms and over the rail. She hadn't eaten for several days, she said, and was "very shaky."

But investigators said Mrs. Aguirre made "conflicting statements" under further questioning and jailed her. They declined to elaborate.

The child, Jubinal Aguirre, suffered only multiple bruises, according to doctors at the Central Receiving Hospital in Los Angeles. They said they wanted to keep the child under observation for 24 hours, however.

Sgt. Rice said he was returning to police headquarters, driving in the slow eastbound lane, when suddenly he "saw something bounce in front of me."

At first he thought it was a pile of clothing, he said, but then he saw the child's head move.

He slammed on the brakes and screeched to a stop, turning on his flashing red lights to keep motorists from striking his car and the child.

Rice and another motorist, Stephen Loeper, carried the baby to the side of the freeway. The sergeant called for an ambulance.

"It seems unbelievable that the baby wasn't seriously injured or killed from a fall like that," Rice said.

He said the child cried hysterically until a pacifier around his neck was placed in his mouth.

Nixon Accepts
1-Year Test of Pay-to-Poor

Bid to Save Family-Aid Program

SAN CLEMENTE (AP) — President Nixon acceded Friday to Senate pressure for a year-long test of his family assistance program, which he called his most important domestic proposal and the most important such measure in 35 years.

Nixon agreed to accept an amendment providing for field testing before putting the program into full operation, in order to win quick passage of the Family Assistance Act, which would put a floor under family incomes.

In a statement and through aides, Nixon applied pressure for action.

Presidential Assistant Daniel P. Moynihan, pounding his fist for emphasis, told reporters time is running out and Nixon is saying: "So much is at stake and so much has been achieved that to fail now, would fail the nation and fail the poor of the nation. And it must not be allowed to happen."

THE LEGISLATION passed the House by a heavy margin and has been tied up in the Senate Finance Committee, although the President said numerous proposals for changes have been made to meet objections of members.

He agreed to take an amendment by Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., for field testing the program before putting it into full operation.

Advisers are convinced the bill can clear the Senate if the Finance Committee will send it to the floor.

The legislation would assure a family of four a minimum income of $1,600 plus food stamps worth $865. This would be figured for a family with no income of its own. The maximum for a family of four, with some income of its own, would be $3,920 in federal funds every year.

The annual cost overall is estimated at $4.1 billion.

GI Toll Big in Ambush
as Reds Step Up War

SAIGON (Saturday) (UPI) Communist troops ambushed a U.S. infantry convoy in the central highlands and touched off a daylong battle in which six Americans were killed and 26 wounded. U.S. military spokesmen said today.

The attack was but one of a flurry of assaults by Communist forces throughout South Vietnam which broke a lull of several weeks in the Vietnam conflict.

The six American deaths in the ambush were the highest in a single ground action in South Vietnam since July 22 when 12 GIs were killed in an ambush near combat base "Ripcord" in the northern quarter. That outpost was subsequently abandoned by the Americans.

Military spokesmen said the ambush occurred at 9 a.m. Friday about 2½ miles northeast of An Khe, 240 miles northeast of Saigon, as a convoy of the 4th Infantry Division was traveling along Highway 19. The convoy was hit by small arms, automatic weapons and rocket-propelled grenade fire, the spokesmen said.

The infantrymen called in helicopter gunships and fighting raged throughout the day before the Communists force withdrew about 6:40 p.m., the spokesmen said. Two Communists were known killed.

Three other Americans were killed and two wounded in several clashes about 82 miles north of Saigon Friday, the U.S. Command said.

Nixon-Kosygin Summit?

SAN CLEMENTE (UPI)

—A summit meeting between President Nixon and Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin during Kosygin's visit to the United Nations in the fall, was shaping up Friday.

Press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler was asked about reports emanating from Moscow and New York that such a meeting is in the works when Kosygin heads his United Nations delegation to New York in October.

"The president's plans for this fall have not been completed," Ziegler said. "I can't discuss it."

But Nixon has labeled this as an era of "negotiation instead of confrontation" and in the light of recent conciliatory foreign policy developments with the Soviets, a summit conference is highly likely.

ANOTHER tipoff was an exchange of letters between Kosygin and Nixon Thursday in connection with the 25th anniversary of the Potsdam Conference.

In the interchange, Kosygin spoke of an all-European security conference, but Nixon appeared to be referring to a Big Two power conclave when he said:

"I agree with you on the importance of seeking mutually acceptable and just solutions to concrete international problems through appropriate methods of negotiations."

"I therefore welcome—and join—your emphasis on the need to enhance our mutual understanding and cooperation in order to broaden the bases of peace and security."

tary effort in South Vietnam, each Thai soldier who served there will be paid $400 in mustering out pay by the U.S. A pullout of 12,000 troops would cost $4.8 million.

King said the U.S. had "provided support for the training, sending and maintaining of Thai troops in South Vietnam."

AGNEW is scheduled to attend a round of all-day meetings with Thai leaders today before returning to the U.S. for a report to President Nixon.

He arrived in Bangkok from Phnom Penh where he spent just under five hours with Premier Lon Nol's government in the biggest show of U.S. support yet given the Cambodian regime.

Afterward, he told newsmen he "made no commitments whatsoever" to Lon Nol, who ousted Prince Norodom Sihanouk as head of state last March 18.

"My conversation was extremely guarded in that respect," he said, adding that he made it clear that the U.S. is willing to give arms and economic aid to Cambodia but wants to keep from becoming "militarily involved."

Agnew said Lon Nol understood the U.S. position and "asked for no military involvement."

Agnew Reassures Thailand
U.S. to Keep Aid Pledges

Combined News Service

BANGKOK, Thailand — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew sought Friday to dispel fears of Thailand's leaders that the U.S. is running out on its Southeast Asian commitments.

On the final leg of his Asian tour, Agnew dined Friday night with Prime Minister Thanom Kittikachorn, a critic of U.S. congressional moves to curtail financing of third-nation military activities in Cambodia.

Agnew spelled out what support the Thais can expect from the U.S. if they send troops to Cambodia as the Nixon administration wants them to do.

Meanwhile in Washington the State Department said Friday it has advised Thailand it has "no objection" to the withdrawal of 12,000 Thai troops who have served in South Vietnam for the past three years.

State Department spokesman John F. King said actual details of the pullout would be left up to the Saigon and Bangkok governments.

Thanom said in Bangkok the troops are needed for Thailand's own defense now because of the rising tension in Laos and Cambodia.

Teen Helpers

Q. Recently, I read about a group in the Long Beach area called Communicateens and would like to know how I could join. T.A., Long Beach.

A. You can go to the Long Beach Memorial Hospital Medical Center, Department of Pastoral Care, 2865 Atlantic Ave., where you will be interviewed by Chaplain Robert Gunter or Dr. Richard T. Knowles, program directors. The volunteer group consists of teenagers interested in community and medical center projects, as well as work at the special teen retreat center in Idyllwild. Dr. Knowles said he also hopes to be able to use the teens' services in the new children's wing under construction at Memorial.

Job's Tears

Q. I have a bead-like stone brought over by my grandmother from Ireland about 1850, and I think it's called Job's Tears. Can you tell me if such a stone exists and if it has any value? P.M., Lakewood.

A. The "stone" you have actually is a seed and possesses no real value except for decorative use. According to Dr. Frank Alfieri, a botanist at California State College at Long Beach, Job's Tears is the popular name for Cotyledon umbillicata, a species of Asian grass. The plant seed, which is what you have, is contained in a hard, shining seed capsule, shaped like a tear. The seeds are used for making beads, rosaries and other ornaments and also are eaten as cereal in parts of eastern Asia, the Philippines and northern India. The plant is native to the Indian subcontinent but is now widely spread throughout the tropical zone, and grows in marshy places. The seed is cultivated in China as it is believed to have medicinal value. "Here in the United States," added Alfieri, "the plant grows wild in the South. It is occasionally cultivated as a decorative house plant."

DDT BAN EXTENDED TO FOOD, ANIMALS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Agriculture Department, citing danger to the environment, Friday issued further restrictions on the use of DDT — this time involving food crops and the livestock and forestry industries.

The announcement was accompanied by acknowledgment that reduced use of DDT, a persistent compound that resists deterioration by time and weather, could result in increased use of short-lived but deadlier pesticides such as parathion.

Last November, the Agriculture Department eliminated 35 per cent of the annual DDT use by banning it for the control of house and garden pests and for insects that attack shade trees, aquatic plants and tobacco leaves.

The ban came after environmentalists objected to DDT on grounds it leaves toxic residues that accumulate in the bodies of humans and wildlife.

FRIDAY'S order cuts into the remaining 65 per cent of DDT use, but does not affect the use of DDT on cotton, citrus fruits, sweet corn and grapes.

Among the uses canceled by Friday's order were control of flies, gnats, mosquitoes, lice and screwworms in swine, beef cattle, sheep and non-milking goats, and control of powder post beetles and other wood-eating insects that damage lumber, buildings and such trees as pine, hemlock, spruce and larch.

It also bans spraying of more than 50 food crops, including cabbage, potatoes and strawberries. But it does not apply to use of DDT on the seedlings of these crops, which might be dipped in DDT before planting, nor does it apply to soil surface treatment to control such pests as cutworms and wireworms.

Other cancellations included use of DDT on flowers and ornamental plants in commercial plantings. House and garden uses were canceled earlier.

Montagnard Tribesmen
Repel Reds, Kill 17

Combined News Services

SAIGON — Military sources reported a company of Communist soldiers attacked a Montagnard tribe-refugee village at Huong Hoa, nine miles south of the DMZ before dawn today. The attack lasted about two hours before militiamen of the mountain tribe fought off the Communists. The sources said the tribesmen killed 17 Communists and captured one. They said artillery from the nearby U.S. base at Camp Carroll supported the tribesmen.

Other shelling attacks hit a position of the U.S. 101st Airborne Division near combat base O'Reilly, west of Hue and about 10 miles from the Laotian border, and a position of the U.S. 5th Mechanized Division south of the DMZ. In all, the U.S. Command reported, five American outposts were shelled, wounding a total of 14 Americans. No fatalities were reported in the attacks.

Middle East Peace Talks Given Little Hope

UNITED NATIONS — Mohammed Hassan El-Zayyat, Egypt's ambassador to the UN, said Friday the Middle East peace talks have "little hope" for success but his government will nonetheless continue to give its full backing to the effort. El-Zayyat made the comment in a statement in response to queries about Israeli charges of cease-fire violations and the presence of large numbers of Soviet troops in the Suez Canal area. El-Zayyat said he would not comment on the charges because he wanted to avoid being drawn into "diversive side issues."

Palestine Guerrillas, Amman Forces Clash

AMMAN — Palestinian guerrillas clashed with government forces in Amman late Friday, only hours after the Palestinian National Council ended a two-day session with an official rejection of the U.S. Middle East peace proposal. The guerrillas seized and temporarily held a downtown post office during the exchange. A spokesman said two guerrillas were killed and others wounded in the clash. The extremist Popular Democratic Front said guerrillas were distributing leaflets near the post office in downtown Amman when they were intercepted by Jordanian intelligence men. The encounter flared into armed fighting and the two sides exchanged machinegun fire.

100 Injured in Chile Political Battle

SANTIAGO — One man was killed and more than 100 other persons were reported injured in a battle in Santiago, Chile, Friday between supporters of two presidential candidates. More than 100 demonstrators were arrested. One group consisted of supporters of ex-President Jorge Alessandri, an independent candidate supported by the right wing. The other was made up of campaign workers for Christian Democrat Radomiro Tomic. Witnesses said the battle lasted more than half an hour. Friday's victims brings the eight-month campaign toll to six dead and more than 200 injured. The election is next Friday.

Peronists Take Credit for Alonso Murder

BUENOS AIRES — Persons claiming to be followers of former dictator Juan Domingo Peron took responsibility Friday for the murder of Jose Alonso, one of Argentina's prominent labor leaders. Alonso, 57, was shot to death while driving to work. Communiques signed with the name of the "Montoneros" National Liberation Army were delivered to a newspaper charging Alonso was "a traitor to the country, the working class and the Peronista movement" and claimed responsibility for his death.

Soviets 'Out to Grab Supreme Sea Power'

LONDON — The Soviet Union is driving all out to grab supreme sea power from the U.S. and is on its way to becoming the world's policeman, the authoritative Jane's Fighting Ships said Friday. The U.S. has an aging fleet, dating largely from World War II, stationed in limited areas, it said. The once mighty British navy, it said, has reached its lowest peacetime level and has abdicated its worldwide role. "But the USSR has warships all over."

HHH Shifts—Seeks End to 'This Cruel War'

Combined News Services

WASHINGTON — Former Vice President Hubert Humphrey, who defended President Johnson's buildup of U.S. forces in Vietnam, endorsed Friday a Senate measure aimed at forcing President Nixon to stop the fighting. "This amendment provides the opportunity for reasserting an American initiative to encourage a political settlement of this cruel war," Humphrey said in a telegram to Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., a cosponsor of the measure.

"The McGovern-Hatfield amendment, together with a standstill cease-fire and the conduct of new free elections in South Vietnam, provide our best hope for peace," Humphrey said. "It offers every possible protection for American military manpower and will bring our men safely home."

"It re-asserts the responsibility of Congress in the conduct of foreign affairs while leaving the President with necessary flexibility to fulfill his constitutional obligations."

Senate Rejects Defense Spending Cutback

WASHINGTON — The Senate Friday rejected a $6-billion cutback in defense spending to offset increases previously voted in health, welfare and education programs. Despite warning the government will be $15 billion in the red at the end of the current fiscal year next July 31, members decided the defense outlays should not be trimmed substantially while the nation is at war. An amendment proposed by a bipartisan coalition of Pentagon critics to fix a $66 billion ceiling on military outlays for the year was defeated 42 to 31. The vote gave the Pentagon a solid victory on the principal challenge by military spending critics to the pending $19.2 billion weapons procurement bill.

Draft Evasion Convictions Triple in 5 Years

WASHINGTON — The Selective Service System said Friday draft evasion prosecutions have soared to ten times their level of five years ago. Convictions have tripled during the same period. National draft headquarters said "one reason for the substantial reduction in the conviction rate is the policy of concluding the case without a guilty judgment if the defendant agrees to submit to induction." The figures presented official confirmation, however, for what was already common knowledge — that draft evasion, both overt and hidden — has risen sharply during the Vietnam War and is still rising.

Says SST Program Should Be Rejected

Dr. Richard Garwin, a White House science adviser who has persistently challenged the administration's supersonic transport program, said Friday that the SST test models now being built will cost the government up to 40 per cent more than the target $1.3 billion, yet will still prove useless in resolving the plane's impact on environment. Garwin told the transportation subcommittee of the Senate Appropriations Committee that the SST contracts should have been cancelled more than a year ago and that the new $290 million budget request for further development should be rejected.

Sen. Muskie Hits Stock Aide 'Pressures'

WASHINGTON — An angry Sen. Edmund Muskie accused Wall Street representatives Friday of pressuring for a delay in Senate action on a bill aimed at protecting millions of securities investors. "They told me that if I didn't call off" a subcommittee session that had been scheduled Friday to draft a final version of proposed insurance fund legislation "they would do everything they could to see that it wasn't held," the Maine Democrat said. "I don't know that they called anyone else" on the securities panel of the Banking and Currency Committee, "and I'm not going to imply that they didn't," he told reporters.

ST. LOUIS — More than a dozen fires, many of them apparently the work of arsonists broke out in St. Louis area Friday injuring 14 persons and causing evacuation of about 50 families in one area. An Army spokesman in Ft. Carlson, Cal. said Friday that 15-year-old Walter Lee Martin is not recognized as a soldier — despite two periods of service in Vietnam — because he did not enlist, was not drafted and did not enter the Army through any regular means. Asst. U.S. Atty. James Richards said in Denver that the 6-foot-3, 190-pound youth had joined the Army at the age of 12 as James J. Wilson, went to Vietnam, was wounded, unmasked, and sent home. Martin somehow rejoined the military forces in Vietnam again under the name S. Sgt. Albert Lewis Jr., and was wounded again, Richards said.

But the Army does not officially recognize that Martin ever served — that's why he was turned over to the U.S. attorney's office.

Martin's 17-year-old wife, Rosa Lee, said it was a "big shock" when she learned Friday, at home in Dothan, Ala., that the soldier she married last April was not Albert Lewis.

The FBI arrested Martin Thursday and charged him with fraud, but the charge was dismissed Friday afternoon and he was freed from the El Paso County jail where he had been held under $1,500 bond. Richards said "At this point in the investigation, it's better that Mr. Martin not be incarcerated as a juvenile," Richards said. "He's now free."

DORIS DAY

Actress-singer Doris Day Friday faced a tax bill for more than $400,000 after a U.S. tax court ruled she was involved in sham business deals to evade income tax.

The court found she and her late husband, Martin Melcher, engaged in paper transactions for the purpose of tax deductions and were liable for back taxes claimed by the Internal Revenue Service.

The court did not credit Miss Day with taking a major role in the transactions, but said she joined her husband in signing tax returns and is thus legally liable for their contents.

TINY TIM

British customs officials searched Tiny Tim's baggage for an hour Friday when the singer arrived en route to the Isle of Wight pop festival. He was accompanied by his wife, Miss Vicki, who is expecting their first baby.

"I'm so happy to be here and see all you nice people again," Tiny Tim said. "I've done one or two open air concerts but none as big as this. I'm so excited, I do hope they like me," he squealed. He carried his ukulele and a jar of handcream in a flight bag. "never go anywhere without them," he said.

GETS LIFE, SAYS HE'S INNOCENT

John Norman Collins was sentenced to life in prison at hard labor Friday in the slaying of an Eastern Michigan University coed. The Ann Arbor County prosecutor then said he is the lone suspect in six unsolved murders. Collins broke a 13-month silence on the case to declare he never met the girl he was convicted of murdering. Moments later he received the mandatory life term in solitary confinement. The 23-year-old Collins was convicted Aug. 19 in the slaying of Karen Sue Bejeman, 18, from Grand Rapids. Before sentencing, Collins said, "I never knew a girl by the name of Karen Sue Bejeman." He also called his conviction "a travesty of justice."

Fermi and Bradbury shared a desert bunker near Alamogordo, N.M., on July 16, 1945, during the first atomic blast. The presentation will be made in Los Alamos by Dr. Glenn Seaborg, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission.

IMPOUNDED

The Indian government Friday impounded the passport of the Rev. Cyriac Puthenpara pending an investigation into the controversial recruitment of Indian girls for Roman Catholic convents in Europe. Father Puthenpara has said he sent 500 girls from Kerala State to Europe.

It was believed the passport move may have been taken to prevent Father Puthenpara from going to London to accept an invitation by the British Broadcasting Corp. to explain his role in the recruiting of the girls. Father Puthenpara, 49, who runs a language institute in Kerala, said he received only enough money from the convents to pay for the girls' plane fares plus expenses for training them. Both the Indian government and the Vatican are investigating the practice of convents paying for Indian girls who wish to become nuns.

Female membership on the New York Stock Exchange was halved Friday when Jane Larkin's seat was transferred to a man. The slender, brown-haired broker said it wasn't discrimination, however. She's just too busy in her new job.

"This is a bigger challenge than I've ever had before," she said of her two-month-old position as partner at F. I. duPont, Glore Forgan Co. Miss Larkin was put in charge of ethical standards and regulations, which means she supervises the activities of all duPont Glore Forgan securities salesmen.

SUSAN ATKINS AILING; MAY DELAY TRIAL

By MARY NEISWENDER
Staff Writer

Following an hour of lurid testimony regarding the death of Rosemary LaBianca, the massacre murder trial against Charles Manson and three of his girl "followers" was recessed Friday because of the illness of one of the defendants.

Susan Atkins, one of the defendants, complained of pains in her stomach and back, causing an almost two-hour delay in the start of the murder trial Friday morning.

After the lunch break, Los Angeles Superior Court Judge Charles Older recessed the trial until Monday morning, telling jurors arrangements had been made for a medical examination of Miss Atkins later Friday.

POSSIBILITY that Miss Atkins' illness is a recurrence of an ovarian cyst was voiced by her attorney, Daye Shinn, following the recess. If true, Shinn said, it could delay the trial from two weeks to one month and require his client to undergo an operation.

The girl, looking pale and with her head resting on the counsel table, sat through almost an hour of testimony, however, from Dr. David M. Katsynya, a deputy county coroner who detailed the wounds suffered by Mrs. LaBianca — one of seven persons Miss Atkins is charged with killing.

Dr. Katsynya said Mrs. LaBianca sustained 41 stab wounds, eight of which were fatal. Fourteen of the wounds, he said, were inflicted as she was dying or after she was dead.

Cause of death was from "multiple stab wounds to the neck and trunk, causing massive hemorrhage," he said. Seven of the fatal wounds were in the upper back, penetrating her lungs, stomach, spleen and diaphragm and partially severing her spinal cord, he said.

ANOTHER fatal wound in her chest also penetrated her lungs.

All the stab wounds, said Katsynya, were caused by "some type of a knife which was sharp, pointed, quite strong and double-edged."

"Smaller wounds on the lower part of her back — on her hips — were inflicted after death or while she was dying," he said.

"There was no sexual molestation or mutilation if you don't call these small stab wounds on her buttocks mutilation."

The doctor said he found 14 stab wounds in her lower back, 22 in her upper back, four in her chest and one in her right lower jaw. He said he also found abrasions on her back.

Police department blood expert M. Joseph Granada, who testified Wednesday regarding the blood found at the "late home," resumed the stand Friday to detail the blood findings at the LaBianca home.

Miss Atkins' illness, however, prevented the testimony.

Grand Jury Raps Oil Drill Plans in Pacific Palisades

The Los Angeles County Grand Jury Friday put up a strong roadblock against plans by the Occidental Petroleum Corp. to drill for oil in Pacific Palisades.

The grand jurors — in a sharply critical statement read by the chairman of its Environmental Control Committee — urged the Board of Appeals to quash a permit allowing the oil company to drill a core hole on a two-acre site near the scene of past landslides. The permit was granted in July by the Los Angeles city zoning administrator.

The statement, signed by Sam M. Soghomonian, foreman of the 1970 grand jury, said:

"It is tragic both for the residents and the millions of people who use Will Rogers State Beach to face the possibility of the ugly sight, sound and smell of oil drilling.

"The physical disruption of terrain which already is unstable geographically is pollution of the highest order. The 1970 Los Angeles County Grand Jury supports the stand of No-Oil, Inc., against all oil exploration and drilling in the Pacific Palisades."

The statement was read by juror Ray L. Dodds, a retired electrician, at a news conference on Via de las Olas, a street on the edge of the cliff areas of the slide-plagued Palisades.

The conference was

Free Press Pair Fined for Stolen List

Underground newspaper editor Art Kunkin and a former reporter for the Los Angeles Free Press were both put on three years probation Friday, and fined for receiving a stolen roster of narcotics agents.

Kunkin was ordered to pay $1,000 and ex-reporter Jerry Applebaum to pay $500 by Superior Court Judge Harold J. Ackerman.

The pair were convicted July 15 of receiving stolen property. The documents, listing the names, addresses and telephone numbers of state narcotics agents, appeared in a front-page article of the newspaper a year ago.

A fine of $500 against the Free Press Corporation was suspended by the Judge. Ackerman also denied a motion for dismissal of charges and motion for a new trial.

Suppressed Letter Heats Hospital Fight

A letter from the director of California's Department of Mental Hygiene to members of the Metropolitan State Hospital Physicians' Association is apparently so explosive that it has been withheld from doctors for a week, the Independent Press - Telegram learned Friday.

The existence of the letter was discovered with the revelation that a petition demanding its release has been signed by every doctor at the hospital with the exception of those in the administration and those connected with the withholding of the letter.

THE LETTER, from Dr. James V. Lowry, director of the California Department of Mental Hygiene, was in response to a letter from the Physicians' Association, critical of statements made by Dr. Elmer Galione, an aide of Lowry, in a visit to the Norwalk hospital Aug. 5 and 6. Galione charged that the medical staff at Metropolitan was "either incompetent or out to sabotage" the state's mental health program.

The exchange between Dr. Galione and doctors at the Norwalk institution was prompted by charges from the doctors that state funding is resulting in potentially dangerous understaffing of the mental health programs at Metropolitan and that drug abuse is prevalent at the institution for lack of adequate staffing.

AT A MEETING of the Physicians' Association following Dr. Galione's statements, a letter expressing the feeling of doctors that they were "shocked, appalled and insulted" by the aide's statements was drafted and mailed to Dr. Lowry.

According to information furnished by staff doctors Friday, Dr. Lowry's response to the Physicians' Association letter was received by Dr. Kenneth Hebard, president of the association, on Aug. 22. However, he did not circulate the letter to other association members. Last Monday, doctors in the association asked Dr. Hebard if they could see the letter, they said, and he refused.

'Salad Bowl' Crops Spoil as Chavez Talks to Giant Grower

SALINAS — Negotiations continued Friday night between the United Farm Workers Organizing Committee and one of the Salinas Valley's biggest growers as Cesar Chavez pickets prepared for the sixth day of their "salad bowl" strike.

A quick settlement was predicted by Chavez Thursday when Interharvest Co., producer of "Chiquita" brand produce, agreed to talks. But both sides were mum as talks dragged through Friday while perishable lettuce, broccoli and strawberries spoiled in fields.

THE announcement of negotiations with Interhar-vest was the first break in a solid wall of grower resistance to Chavez' attempt to organize farm labor in the narrow valley that produces 72 per cent of the nation's head lettuce.

A Salinas valley grower filed suit to force Interharvest to stand by its collective bargaining agreement with the Teamsters Union. Lettuce shipments continued with a slight dip in volume at around 40 per cent of normal.

Refusal of 300 cooling plant workers to cross UFWOC lines slowed but did not halt shipping.

The Federal State Market News Service reported 112 carloads of lettuce and other produce left the valley Thursday.

The seasonal normal is 250.

AT THE same time, UFWOC and the Teamsters — who signed most major growers to contracts a month ago — both claimed to have signed around 7,000 of the valley's 10,000 farm workers. Both unions said they were signing more workers Friday.

Strawberry shipments — 13,045 crates the Friday before the strike — were 2,292 crates Thursday, down from a Wednesday strike high of 2,530.

Growers' spokesman Les Hubbard said lettuce crews Friday were at about 60 per cent of normal. "None of these people, with very few exceptions, were recruited for the jobs," he said.

"They are workers who just returned to work."

Chavez claimed growers were using state employment offices to recruit field workers from as far away as Mexico.

SCATTERED violence and arrests were reported Friday, the first since Tuesday.

Ernest Vineyard, a long distance produce truck driver from Houston, was injured slightly when a rock allegedly thrown by a striker bounced off his truck mirror and hit him between the eyes.

One UFWOC picket was arrested for blocking a driveway, and several arrests were reported at farms.

Three processing plant operators obtained temporary restraining orders to prevent picketing, but like 50 or more growers orders, they have been ignored. On the other side, California Rural Legal Assistance obtained restraining order against one grower to prevent "summary evictions" of strikers.

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The carpenters' union shouted unanimous approval Friday to a motion to contribute $10,000 to the Salinas Valley farm workers' strike.

Firm Escapes Prosecution Over Bluff Bulldozing

By GEORGE LAINE
From Our L.A. Bureau

Developers who bulldozed a road and a parking lot on a Portuguese Bend bluff will not face criminal prosecution for "blatant defiance" of county regulations, according to Los Angeles County Engineer John A. Lambie.

Instead, the Portuguese Bend Development Co. was assessed double fees for its building permits — a total of $150 — and must meet strict standards at its Vista Sudeste project.

Harassment Plea Denied to Victim's Kin

The injunction against Los Angeles police "harassment" sought by the family of slain Vietnam veteran Jerry Lee Amie, was denied Thursday by U.S. District Court Judge Mannel L. Real.

The judge ruled that the Amie attorneys had failed to show sufficient proof of police harassment.

The original request for a preliminary injunction included 15 plaintiffs, the Amie family, friends, and neighbors. Real dismissed the suits of 12 of the plaintiffs Thursday and ordered deputy City Attorney Louis de Haas to present only evidence refuting the claims of three of Amie's brothers.

After hearing the evidence Friday, the police witnesses, and the closing arguments of the Amie attorneys and de Haas, Judge Real ruled against the injunction.

Amie was slain by police outside the Los Angeles family home June 20.

as a condition of obtaining the permits, which were issued Thursday.

The conditions included: — Removal of tons of dirt bulldozed from the bluff onto the beach below.

— Providing ground cover; shrubbery and irrigation where slopes were exposed.

— Installing of drainage culverts which meet county standards.

Revelation of the bulldozing job brought strong protests from Portuguese Bend Residents and an angry denunciation from County Supervisor Burton W. Chace, who asked that all legal recourse be taken against the firm.

Another supervisor, Kenneth Hahn, joined in the controversy when he learned that the president of the company, Karl Rodi, was the chairman of the Beverly Hills Planning Commission. Hahn said he couldn't understand how a man serving on a planning commission could knowingly violate the county's ordinances.

Supervisors instructed Lambie and County Counsel John Meharg to map a plan of action against the development firm.

Lambie's findings, released Friday, said that after Rodi had agreed to severe restrictions on the 40-acre property, the Regional Planning Commission approved the project. He said the development now conforms to the zoning — R-4, R-A and C-R — for the property, located at 5410 Palos Verdes Drive South.

APPROVAL by the RPC was required before the county engineer could issue the grading permits for the road and parking lot work "performed a month ago in violation of Los Angeles County's building laws," Lambie said.

Lambie said that the Vista Sudeste president had pledged to the RPC that the road and parking lot "would be used exclusively by corporation officers and clients for inspection, by security officers patrolling the property for trespassers and to improve drainage from the land (portions of which have historically been ponded)."

Lambie said that based on the RPC's approval and a review by his department of the grading, drainage and geologic information submitted by Rodi, the department issued the building permits. Rodi also pledged, Lambie said, that "the graded area will not be used for automobile parking or for purposes other than drainage unless and until appropriate applications are filed for zone changes or special use permits, and until such changes and/or permits are obtained."

Lambie said his meetings with Rodi and other Vista Sudeste officials had convinced him "we can expect no further violations in this instance." But the engineer added, close inspection of future work at the site will be conducted "and any reported violations of the zoning or grading ordinances will be swiftly brought to the attention of law enforcement officials."

LAMBIE said the matter would not be referred to the district attorney for criminal prosecution "in view of the fact that the work performed did not place anyone's life or property in danger."

He said that court leniency in past efforts to bring building permit violators to justice indicated that the double assessment is "probably the strictest penalty we can exact against Vista Sudeste." The matter, nevertheless, will require approval of county supervisors when they meet Tuesday.

16 HIPPIE SQUATTERS HELD

TOPANGA — A band of 46 hippies were arrested for squatting in the Twin Poles area of Topanga Canyon Friday by 60 policemen aided by two helicopters.

The move was prompted by dozens of complaints about alleged narcotics violations in the area. Among those taken into custody on trespassing charges were 29 juveniles and a 3-year-old boy.

TOPS 19.8 MILLION

State Population Growth Slackens

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — California's population has reached over 19.8 million, but the figures are climbing at a slower rate than before, the state Department of Finance estimated Friday.

The provisional estimate of the population as of July 1 represents the first attempt to reflect early returns from the 1970 census, said Finance Director Verne Orr.

In a statement he said the total population of 19,826,000 represents an increase of 3,983,000 or 25 per cent over the population of 10 years ago.

But in the 10 years from 1950 to 1960, the state's population jumped by 5,220,000.

He said that while final revision for the years after 1960 cannot be made without final census results, it was apparent that population increase in the past year was well below that recorded in the earlier years of the decade, the result of less-than-expected net migration.

CHANGES made when final census results are available will probably be minor, the director said.

He added that 54 per cent of the increase in the last decade was due to migration, while 46 per cent was due to natural increase, or the excess of births over deaths.

Orr said Los Angeles County added 826,100 inhabitants in the last decade, more than any other county. The figure represented a population change of 15.3 per cent and raised the total to 6.9 million.

For the second-greatest increase, Orange County added 700,500 new persons, nearly doubling its population for a new total of 1.4 million.

Security Measure

Q. Is it true that even though a husband and wife have both worked and paid into Social Security for many years, they will never both be able to draw maximum benefits at retirement? D.Z., Artesia.

A. No. Any man or woman who has met work and age requirements for maximum Social Security benefits may draw full amount of benefits upon retirement, whether married or not, according to George Hermann, administrative assistant, Long Beach Social Security Office.

Bugged

Q. I'm having trouble with bugs which look like weevils in my home. I'd like to know what they are and how to get rid of them. L.D., Long Beach.

A. Flour or meal moths and "pantry beetles" are often found in and near stored food products where they complete their life cycle, according to a pest control bulletin issued by the Agricultural Extension Service of the University of California, Orange County division.

Action Line

Most dried foods, cereal, flour products, nuts, beans, spices, dog food and candies, are attacked. Spilled or open food products commonly become infested. The source of the pests may be in adjoining areas, such as a garage or shed. The pests you have are probably of the pantry beetle type, which include certain species of weevil. In general, they are small brown oval or elongated beetles. You should destroy the infested product, and thoroughly clean the shelves, drawers, cupboards and floor near the infested area. Spray the shelves with a good commercial insecticide. Place all uninfested products in containers with tight-fitting lids. Keep storage units dry as moisture encourages pests.

Tennis, Anyone?

Q. Several of us local tennis players are wondering about the way Long Beach tennis tournaments are conducted. How are players classified for competition? Is it true that even the most accomplished players are allowed to play in the lower divisions, winning again and again? W.F., Long Beach.

A. "Tournament entrants are classified according to ability, and are rated by the tournament committee," Ron Morse, Long Beach Recreation Department tennis instructor, told Action Line. "Players normally are rated A, B, C or D. Open division includes the most accomplished and experienced of the entrants. Generally, when a person wins C or D division, he is automatically moved up one classification. A player can 'play up' in other words, enter a division above his ranking, but can never 'play down' into a lower division. There are no cash prizes and tournaments are not open to professional players.

Up, Up and Away

Q. Do you know where I can purchase weather balloons? A.B., Bishop.

A. Long Beach Surplus Sales, 3515 Long Beach Blvd., stocks red, white and black rubber weather balloons. Balloons 5 feet in diameter sell for $1.49 and 10 foot balloons are $1.98. Larger balloons are available. You can order 8 and 16 foot balloons, for $2 and $7 respectively, from Edmund Scientific Co., 100 Edscorp Building, Barrington, New Jersey, 08007.

HAVING A BALL

15 Ghetto Youths Tour Hawaii

HONOLULU — Fifteen boys whose world used to be confined to east and south Los Angeles are enjoying a new status as members of a unique "all-star" team vacationing in Hawaii.

The reason for their success: A Los Angeles executive whose car was stolen.

Tulley N. Brown says after the theft of his car he discovered that the ghetto youths had few sports and educational interests. Brown said he was appalled to find that, although there were 55,000 kids playing Little League Baseball in greater Los Angeles, none came from the poorer neighborhoods.

So he set up Direction Sports, Inc., a privately financed program which uses sports to create a deeper interest in education.

"We started working out of four borrowed offices and the back seat of a car," he said. Now the advisory board includes such names as Bob Hope, Bill Cosby and Barron Hilton, and the program has more than 400 participants from ghetto neighborhoods.

The 15 boys touring the islands earned their trip by excelling in the program, both athletically and scholastically.

"These are the cream of the crop, and they're no angels," says Fred Fu-jioka, one of three coaches who traveled to the islands with the group. Like the other coaches in the two-year program, Fujioka is working his way through college while coaching the boys.

The trip to Hawaii was arranged, said Brown, "because he wanted the boys to see the beauty here and feel the Aloha spirit."

"It can have a lifelong positive effect on whether or not a boy will become a good citizen and producing member of society," he said.

The boys, aged 11 to 13, have gone swimming, deep sea fishing, canoe riding and have been treated to real Hawaiian Luau's, complete with roast pig and poi.

"Hawaii's all right," says Oliver Burrell, 13, East Los Angeles, "and I like the hotel where we eat -- it can make you fat."

NIXON AID PLAN TEST

applaud the President's reaffirmation of support of the program including a testing period.

"I would hope that the Senate Finance Committee would report as soon as possible a bill to the floor so that it may be considered and passed before adjournment."

Sen. Wallace F. Bennett, R-Utah, No. 2 Republican on the Finance Committee, also welcomed the President's statement.

"The field test proposal will give the Congress and the Administration the needed opportunity to work out as many of the bugs as possible and to take a look at the program after actual on-the-ground experiences."

Other supporters of the plan said privately they doubted if the statement would ease the opposition of conservatives on the committee who strongly oppose the FAP. But these supporters remained confident, as they have all along, that the committee will approve a version of the bill and that the Senate will pass a comprehensive measure before the 1970 session ends.

NIXON said that the full Senate must be given a chance to work its will on the necessary legislation. And he urged the Finance Committee to "get down to the hard business of marking up a bill as expeditiously as possible."

To underscore his concern, Nixon sent Moynihan, Robert H. Finch of the presidential staff and the undersecretary of Health Education and Welfare, John Veneman, to the White House press center to make the case for him before news and television cameramen and reporters.

Nixon himself has been on the telephone with some of the key senators involved in the future of his legislation.

Finch said that one reason for Nixon's move Friday is that "the next 10 days or two weeks are absolutely critical."

Finch said some trials

President Nixon said his wife, Pat, was feeling better Friday in her bout with what he called "just a simple virus bug." He said it was just a three-day virus and he hopes he won't get it.

already have been run in Vermont and they convinced the Administration that the program will work. Officials, he said, want to conduct tests in two other areas and the President has given the go-ahead. The idea will be to have a test in a rural, an urban and in an industrial area. One, he said, might be in Arkansas.

THE CHIEF objection voiced to the plan by Finance Committee members has been that under certain circumstances welfare recipients could improve their lot by quitting work or by taking a drop in earnings to become eligible for benefits.

Senate critics also have challenged the Administration's estimate that the program's cost would be about $4.1 billion in its first year of operation. Opponents have argued the price tag would be closer to $10 billion.

And the program has been attacked on grounds that by extending aid for the first time to people who work but still live below the poverty level, the welfare rolls would swell from the present 10 million to 25 million people, one out of every eight Americans.

MOYNIHAN was asked why he had such a voice of doom about the legislation and replied, with heavy emphasis: "It is five minutes of midnight. All that was possible to do has been done. Now the President knows if the bill is reported to the floor of the Senate it will be overwhelmingly enacted. ... I am not concerned about details but principles."

Finch said it would be difficult to start the whole process over again and that without action now

The pipeline, opposed by some environmental groups, would connect Alaska's oil-rich North Slope with the all-weather port of Valdez.

Hickel said he expected the reorganization of the Trans-Alaska Pipeline System, the group hoping to construct the facility, would be officially announced within the next few weeks.

Hickel said he would meet with the top executives of the group when he returns from his European Arctic tour, a fact-finding visit to study the ecological balance of Arctic regions in anticipation of some of the problems caused by the pipeline.

Legislature Marine Blames Tax Meet Ruled Out Fear of Ambush in Viet Slayings

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan's campaign chairman Friday said a special legislative session on tax reform would be "ridiculous."

"A special session is pretty ridiculous in view of the Legislature was there eight months already," Thomas Reed said. "It's time to go out and get a mandate from the voters one way or the other."

Reagan's tax revision package passed the Assembly in the legislative session completed last week, but failed by one vote in the Senate.

Reed, a Republican national committeeman, said the call by Assemblyman Jess Unruh, the Democratic gubernatorial candidate, for a special session "raises an intriguing question: would he attend?"

EARLIER he criticized Unruh's attendance in the Legislature.

He also challenged Unruh's characterization of the 1970 Legislature as a "Republican Legislature." He said neither party "has had an effective working majority."

'MISS BLACK AMERICA' CHOSEN

NEW YORK — Stephanie M. Clark, 19, of the District of Columbia, Friday night won the Miss Black America beauty pageant at Madison Square Garden.

Thirty other girls from as many states also sought the title.

The judges included the Rev. Jesse Jackson, national director of Operation Breadbasket; former baseball star Jackie Robinson and Fannie Lou Hamer, vice chairman of the Mississippi Freedom party.

Boys Find Dead Pilot, Lost Plane

RENO, Nev. (UPI) — The body of a California man missing in a private plane since April was found on a peak near here, authorities reported Friday.

Two young boys hunting deer with bows and arrows discovered the badly decomposed body of Frederick Lee Evans, a Navy enlisted man stationed at Oxnard. Thursday night at the 9,000-foot level of a peak 12 miles south of here in the Lake Tahoe area.

DA NANG, Vietnam (UPI) — Marine Pvt. Randall D. Herrod testified at his court-martial Friday that his "killer team" patrol believed it was being ambushed when he and four other Marines gunned down civilians in a Northern Vietnamese hamlet.

The 20-year-old Silver Star Medal winner from Calumet, Okla., is charged with the premeditated murder of 18 civilians during a night mission Feb. 19 in Hamlet 4 of Son Thang village, southwest of here.

He said the patrol began shooting after it came under fire and some of the victims had started to run away. Six villagers were lined up near one of three huts in the search area, Herrod testified, and then "something whizzed by my ear" and a woman started running.

"Someone got her, she's getting away," Herrod said he yelled. He fired a buckshot round from his grenade, "dropped her" and the patrol fired on the other civilians when they began "moving around," he added.

HERROD SAID HE SHOUTED, "Let's get the hell out of here!" and that the patrol ran toward another hut, where he saw a woman drop to the ground as more fire came into the area. At that point, a Marine yelled, "Open up, we're in an ambush," Herrod said, and the patrol fired again into a group of civilians.

"Moving fast because we thought we might be set up (for an ambush) again," they went through a tree-line and along a rice paddy to the third hut, where there were more civilians, Herrod said he heard Pfc. Samuel G. Green Jr. shout, "Look out, Herrod she's going for something."

The defendant said he turned and fired, and the others opened up on the civilians while on the run.

GREEN, 19, OF CLEVELAND, Ohio, has been sentenced to five years in prison and a dishonorable discharge. The sentence is under appeal.

Dr. Hayden H. Donahue of Norman, Okla., director of the Oklahoma Mental Health Department, followed Herrod as a witness. He told the court that someone in Herrod's position could have suffered combat fatigue and been not mentally responsible.

Donahue, who has made studies of combat fatigue cases, testified that Herrod's 14 months of exposure to combat situations included experiences that would lead him to react automatically, as he had been trained to do, whether or not that action was warranted.

NO SATAN IN JAIL Science Fiction for Devil Death Suspect

Steven C. Hurd, 20, accused leader of a cult of youths accused of two brutal murders, got two science fiction books to read Friday instead of books on devil-worshipping.

Hurd wanted books about Satan because, he said, devil worship is his religion. He complained to Santa Ana Superior Court Judge Samuel Dreizen that he is held in solitary confinement in the Orange County Jail, and has neither books nor television.

The gangling long-haired youth from Santa Ana was head of the "Sons of Satan" motorcycle club.

He was arrested for the June 2 ax slaying of Jerry Wayne Carlin, 21, a Santa Ana gas station attendant, and the June 3 knife murder of El Toro schoolteacher Mrs. Florence Nancy Brown, 31, mother of five.

Her body was found days later, partly dismembered for what authorities said were "sacrifices to Satan" in weird rites in a lonely canyon of the Santa Ana Mountains.

Hurd is charged with both slayings. He is due for trial Nov. 9 on dual counts of not guilty and insanity. Herman H. Taylor, 17, of Santa Ana, is charged also with both murders, and Mrs. Melanie Daniels, 31, is accused as an accessory to both.

Arthur (Moose) Hulse, 16, of Garden Grove, is accused in the Carlin slaying and Christopher (Gypsy) Gibboney, 17, of Portland, Ore., is a suspect in the death of Mrs. Brown.

Poll Shows 70 Pct. Favor Anticrime, Pollution Spending

By MERVIN D. FIELD

The public's concern over more effective law enforcement programs and more progress on the control of air and water pollution is so great that 70 per cent or more of the California public would give these two efforts top priority in all government spending. Other domestic programs, such as federal aid to the cities and welfare and poverty programs are rated high priority by substantial majorities.

On the other hand, there is very little public support for the government to spend money on the supersonic transport (SST) program.

Spending for the Vietnam war divides the public sharply. On balance, continued spending for it is given relatively low priority.

The California Poll in its most recent survey conducted earlier this month found that the public makes some clear distinctions on the priorities of government spending. A representative cross-section of adult respondents was shown a list of eight government spending programs and asked to indicate what priority he felt each one should have. The programs and ratings given to them by the public were:

PRIORITY ASSIGNED BY PUBLIC

	Top 72%	High 18	Low 4	Very Low 3
Air and water pollution

Vietnam war	21%	26	12	36
Space program	11%	39	29	19
Supersonic transport development	5%	12	31	42

There is very little difference between Democrats and Republicans when it comes to giving top or high priority to such things as combat ng crime, controlling air and water pollution, for defense programs other than Vietnam, and giving low priorities to the SST program.

On the other hand, there are sharp partisan differences on issues such as the space program, where Republicans give higher spending priority than do Democrats and, on the Vietnam war, where six out of ten Republicans give the Vietnam war top or high spending priority while fewer than four out of ten Democrats take this position.

Likewise, Democrats tried to be more strongly in favor of welfare programs and aid to cities than Republicans are.

Tunney Repeats His Net Worth $395,000

— Congressman John V. Tunney, who revealed his financial situation prior to the June primary, again released a statement Friday in Los Angeles.

Tunney, who said his new worth is $395,000, made the announcement in conjunction with his campaign for the U.S. Senate seat of Republican George Murphy.

"To prevent conflict of interest, I have consistently supported legislation that would require congressmen to reveal their holdings and income, and, last April 9, I fully disclosed mine in a detailed statement."

Tunney said his 16 stocks and bonds none worth more than $30,000, are handled by G.H. Walker & Co.

"In the six years I have been in Congress, I have received but one salary, my congressional salary. I have received no credit cards, rent subsidies or stock deals, and on entering Congress, I gave up my California law practice and have not engaged in private practice since."

"He's the same lifeguard we dated here last year only this time he asked me to sit with his new baby."

Cheating on Elderly Denied

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The chief of California's Medi-Cal program said Friday that a General Accounting Office report on cheating by nursing homes was two years old and several preventive measures have been taken since then.

The statement came from Dr. Earl C. Brian, director of State Health Care Services which administers the Medi-Cal Program for the state's medically indigent.

The GAO said Thursday in a report to Congress that state officials have failed to curb the cheating practices.

Brian said his agency has beefed up its investigative bureau from two to 14 persons and given Medi-Cal physician-consultants standards for nursing home admissions.

"We have also written regulations to insure that California's nursing homes meet state standards," he said.

The director pointed out that his department was also sending out medical-social review teams to decide the level of care for each of the state's 55,000 Medi-Cal patients in nursing homes and to decide whether the level of care meets state standards.

In addition, Brian said, 11 punitive actions were pending against nursing homes for violations and six criminal prosecutions were instituted in the last six months.

Brown Demands Free TV Time

Citing the "staggering cost of TV advertising" which he said is barring many candidates from running for office, Edmund G. Brown Jr., the Democratic nominee for secretary of state, Friday asked TV stations to give free time to statewide political candidates.

Brown, son of the ex-governor of California Edmund G. "Pat" Brown, told a Los Angeles Biltmore Hotel news conference that broadcasters have a "clear constitutional responsibility" to provide commercial time to all qualified candidates, including those with limited funds.

He said the state's major problems will not be solved "as long as we allow TV stations to put a price tag" on political discussion.

HEW Invites State Schools to Seek Desegregation Aid

By ED ZUCKERMAN
From Our National Bureau

WASHINGTON — Eight California school districts are being invited to submit applications for classroom desegregation programs, the U.S. Dept. of Health, Education and Welfare said Friday.

In announcing the distribution of the $75-million emergency School Desegregation Act funds authorized earlier this month by Congress, the department said it had set aside $536,604 for use by California districts.

THE EIGHT systems are Pasadena Unified School District; San Mateo Elementary District; Monrovia School District; Merced Elementary District; Inglewood Unified District; Hanford School District; Berkeley City Unified School District and Banning Unified School District.

Distribution of the funds is not automatic nor does it mean that HEW has designated the districts as recipients, according to Joseph Connor, a department spokesman.

"It merely means that we have reason to believe that those districts may be eligible for funds if they apply," he said.

"Notification to those school systems should only be considered as an invitation to submit an application."

Eligibility is determined by the status of desegregation programs and the type of program outlined in the fund application.

Systems must have a court-ordered or voluntary desegregation plan which meets HEW standards on file with the department's civil rights compliance division. And, the plan's phase must commence by the opening of the 1970-71 academic year.

ALSO considered eligible for funds are school systems that desegregated in the last two years, but funds are not to be used to pay for program expenses incurred previously.

A total of 1,319 school districts across the country were invited to apply for funds. The state receiving the largest allocation is Texas where $8.9 million has been set aside for possible programs in 174 school districts.

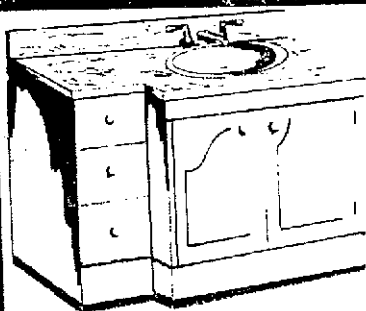

Council OKs Water, Street Projects

A water line and street improvement project on Garden Grove Boulevard from Ninth Street to Harbor Boulevard estimated to cost $85,000 has been approved by the City Council.

The water mains will improve fire protection on abutting property and water pressure in times of peak use. Water Department Director Richard O.

Rafanovic said in his report to the council.

The mains are part of the master plan and will be constructed jointly with the street improvements.

Nixon Turnabout: Loans OK'd for Pet LBJ Project

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon Administration, in a policy turnabout, has approved free federal land and tentatively approved $7.3 million in loan guarantees and interest subsidies for an Austin, Tex., nursing home project pushed by former President Lyndon B. Johnson.

Less than a year ago, the Administration termed the nonprofit nursing home and housing complex not feasible, canceling loan commitments and demanding return of 26.5 acres of federal land.

Over the past few months, government spokesmen confirmed Friday, the loan commitments and subsidies from the Department of Housing and Urban Development and the land transfer from the Department of Health Education and Welfare have been reinstated.

Congressional reports that the turnabout followed heated protest by Johnson to President Nixon could not be confirmed. But government sources indicated considerable political pressure was exerted in behalf of the project.

AT ISSUE ARE PLANS of the Austin Geriatrics Center, Inc., to use government help in building a 168-bed nursing home and 250-unit housing development for the elderly.

Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., has described the deal as a "multi-million dollar giveaway."

Organizers of the Geriatrics Center include such old Johnson friends and business associates as J. C. Kellam, Frank C. Erwin, Jr., and Roy A. Butler.

The project was initially approved during the closing days of the Johnson administration. It is sometimes described as Johnson's vision of a hometown monument to his administration.

HEW agreed to deed at no cost land once occupied by a government fish hatchery. Although the land had originally been appraised at $2 million, its value was set at $840,000 for the transfer.

THE GERIATRICS CENTER, in turn, was to use the value of the free land as its 10 per cent matching contribution for a $9 million construction loan guarantee from HUD.

The administration had second thoughts about the aid arrangement it inherited after details were disclosed by Williams last fall.

HUD reviewed the project and found the loan application failed to meet government requirements. HEW sought return of the land on grounds the Geriatric Center had not obtained the necessary federal tax exemption.

Last December, however, the Internal Revenue Service tendered the required exemption and HEW abandoned efforts to regain the land.

In January 1970 — one month after Nixon met with Johnson in Austin — HUD told the Texas group it could submit a new aid application. The application was received in May and tentatively approved in July at the slightly reduced sum of $7.3 million.

GROUP FLIGHTS CANCELED

British Clamp Strands Americans

LONDON (AP) — Hundreds of Americans have been stranded in London lately by a British crackdown on what the government considers phony charter flights.

In the fourth case this month, 186 ticket holders got the news Friday that their chartered jet won't be taking off for New York next week.

Why? The government finds it hard to believe all of the would-be passengers are what they claim to be — true members of the Theatre and Music Appreciation Society of Bexleyheath.

The same self-proclaimed cultural group was grounded last Wednesday only hours before takeoff when the government got a tip that some passengers posing as theater and music lovers were really just bargain hunters. They were hoping to travel at half-fare.

"I'm heartbroken," said an English teen-ager who was on her way to get married in Tucson, Ariz. She claimed the ticket seller failed to warn her she had to be a member of the group.

"I have never heard of the Bexleyheath Theatre and Music Appreciation Society," she said.

A spokesman for the government's Board of Trade says it casts a cold, dubious eye over groups with "weird and wonderful names."

Some of them with colorful titles, like the Trowbridge and District Cage Birds Society, pass muster as legitimate "affinity groups" whose main function is not just to get cheap tickets.

But sometimes legiti-mate members of these groups cancel shortly before the flight, and a few travel agents then sell their tickets to Americans at the last minute and tell the airline the new passengers have been group members for six months. Then the Americans get stranded when the government refuses to permit the flight.

Tickets for charter flights are a hot item for sale among the young American tourists who sit in the sunshine on the sidewalk in front of the American Express near Trafalgar Square.

One bearded, bespectacled youth was sitting there Friday and holding a sign offering a one-way ticket to New York on Aug. 31. The price was $130—almost half the fare for regularly scheduled flights, but double the one-way fare for true charter flights.

"This is a legitimate charter flight," he told a questioner from his perch on the curb. "You sign a form saying you're a member of a friendship society."

Until the recent crackdown the phony ticket racket has been a bonanza for some two dozen travel agencies. They buy up $60 tickets from group members who cancel their return to New York, then sell them to new "members" for $100 or more.

One agency which advertises openly in the London Times and is located above a Chinese supermarket here, specializes in trips to the Far East.

Another, in London's Soho District, claims the society it represents has as its sole purpose in life "to further good relations between peoples of all countries."

LIGHTHEARTED CONFRONTATION

Portland Braces for Conflict as Legion Convention Begins

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — With Portland under unprecedented police control, the American Legion opened its 52nd annual convention Friday. Thousands of young people, most of them 20 miles away, kicked off their antiwar "people's army jamboree" at the same time.

McCall earlier activated the guard and Portland Mayor Terry Shunk took direct command of city departments normally run by elected commissioners.

But the 7,000 young people already camped in two parks were mostly making music and speeches.

County Commission Chairman M. James Gleason said the special emergency powers were granted because "there is grave danger of violent confrontation."

Shortly before the convention began and explosion rocked the entrance of the American Legion memorial hall in downtown Seattle, 160 miles north of Portland. There were no injuries, and damage was estimated at $2,500.

National Legion Commander Milton Patrick, at a news conference late Friday, reaffirmed the Legion will not be a party to any violence in Oregon.

He said "if there is to be a confrontation, it will be the fault of other visitors to Portland who selected this city as the site of a happening at this time and with this specific purpose in mind."

Patrick said the Legion will not let the antiwar protesters get on the convention podium because "we don't have the time to discuss those problems here."

In 19 areas of the county — including Portland International Airport — the sheriff was given unprecedented power of search and entry.

Included on the list of emergency areas were schools, water reservoirs, police and fire stations, city hall, the courthouse, the Hilton Hotel convention headquarters and Memorial Coliseum, site of the convention.

One of the first convention speakers was Air Force Brig. Gen. Daniel James, a deputy assistant secretary of defense, who told Legionnaires to "burnish up that weapon we know as unity."

James told 250 members of the Legion's national security commission the nation is "split from within on too many issues."

He asked for "responsible involvement" and said Americans should not sit by and decry violence and burnings.

"If you can't stop them physically," he said, "at least tell them they are wrong."

POLICE reported peace and quiet at Melver State Park, 20 miles southeast of here near Estacada, Ore., where almost 7,000 young people were opening a state-sanctioned rock festival Friday.

At Portland's Delta Park, seven miles northwest of the downtown area, only 300 young people were reported camping. The park was approved by the city for camping by protest groups coming into the city.

Across the Columbia River, near Washougal, Wash., another privately sponsored rock festival was hoping to get off the ground Friday, but it was bogged down in a legal fight with county authorities.

ISLE OF WIGHT

Thousands Jam Pop Music Fete

FRESHWATER, Isle of Wight (UPI) — Thousands of young ticket holders jammed through turnstiles for the Friday night opening of the biggest European pop music festival this year. Thousands more were headed for this resort island off the south coast of England.

About 200 long-haired youths, many of them French, tried to force their way through a hole in the fence. They were halted by guards with police dogs and a bulldozer. Three guards were injured.

The festival organizers flew in such stars as Joan Baez, Tiny Tim and Jimmy Hendrix for the four-day show.

Young fans began gathering a week ago. They bathed nude at island beaches and began drinking some of the 25,000 gallons of beer imported.

POLICE ESTIMATED 100,000 persons had crammed into this resort town, which has a normal population of 3,500. They expected thousands more during the three-day weekend created by the annual Bank Holiday Monday.

About 60 have been arrested so far, mostly for drugs and pilfering.

Brian MacGoughan, 24, security force head, blamed French and Algerian anarchists for skirmishes.

"They are members of an international gang specializing in wrecking pop festivals," he said, adding that an American motor bike group had been shooting at guard dogs with air rifles.

Police checked island ferries and confiscated items that could be used as weapons. Gangs were told to leave their motorcycles on the mainland.

"Skinheads," gangs of youths who crop their hair short, were stripped of their heavy boots, which are sometimes used as weapons in fights.

Food vendors operating unofficially at the festival complained they had been threatened by thugs from an alleged "protection" gang who had turned over and burned two of their stalls.

To End Pollution: 'Tougher Laws and Lots of Money'

By GILBERT BAILEY
Contributing Editor

Tougher legislation is what is needed to end air pollution, Robert Chass, Los Angeles Air Pollution Control Officer, said Friday.

"We have the answer to every single air pollution problem," he explained. We just need legislation . . . and lots of money."

Chass in an interview, which will be broadcast at 8:30 p.m. Sunday over radio station KPFL, was not too pleased with the recent legislative session.

One piece of legislation, Senate Bill 904 "is against the best interests of the people of Los Angeles," he said.

The legislation would block any control of air pollution coming from aircraft until Jan. 1, 1972, and removes control of aircraft from the jurisdiction of the district, according to Chass.

At present, the district has legal jurisdiction over aircraft. Controls had been scheduled to take effect Jan. 1, 1971. The legislation, now on the governor's desk, would place aircraft under the State Air Resources Board with no controls to be established before Jan. 1, 1972.

In a wide ranging interview, the head of the air pollution control district, said a study of particulates — small pieces of dirt and soot — will be started Sept. 1 to determine what effect they have on visibility. Visibility reduction from air pollution occurs most days of the year in the Los Angeles basin.

Chass also noted that different areas within the basin have different problems. Not all of those problems are caused by the automobile he added.

"Sometimes in the southeast coastal section (the Long Beach area) less than 10 per cent may be caused by the auto," he commented.

Chass said Los Angeles has less of a problem with sulfur dioxide than other major cities such as New York.

As a result, Chass said, he does not believe the Los Angeles area will have a killer smog, such as one predicted recently by a UCLA scientist.

However, Chass was unaware that Los Angeles had been listed as 14th out of 50 cities with sulfur dioxide problems.

He was also unaware of a recent .70 parts of sulfur dioxide per million parts of air in the Long Beach area.

Chass differed from recently retired air pollution chief Louis Fuller, who commented on his retirement that the smog battle was won.

"Anyone who goes outside knows better than that," said Chass.

Taking a middle road between those who claim doom and those who claim victory, he called for working auto controls, and for additional controls on plants which puff out sulfur dioxide.

Finally, Chass said he feels there is no need for public hearings on air pollution problems in the Los Angeles basin and defended district statistics on pollution sources.

CATHOLIC HEADS BIRTH CONTROL UNIT

BELMONT (AP) — The new executive director of the Planned Parenthood Association of San Mateo County is Patrick J. Sheeran, an Irish Catholic who says he considers himself among the progressives of his church.

The association provides birth control information and abortion counseling, but Sheeran says he is not planning any crusade against church policies.

"I don't want to either defend the church or attack it; it's not up to me," he said.

HIS JOB, he said, is to make information available and let people make up their own minds.

A 3-year-old native of Ireland, Sheeran is married and has a 7-year-old daughter.

He studied at St. Patrick's College in Ireland before immigrating to the United States in 1956, then attended the Catholic University of America and the Jesuit University of San Francisco. He has a master's degree in international relations from the University of Southern California.

Golden Gate's Earnings Top $5-Million Mark

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Golden Gate Bridge earned more than five million dollars in the last fiscal year, according to a report to the bridge directors' monthly meeting Friday.

Operating revenue of $3½ million and investment earnings of 1½ million made a total figure for revenue over expenses of $5,256,308.

Vehicle traffic on the bridge increased 7.41 percent over last year, it was reported, and more than 26,000 passengers have taken the new Sausalito ferry — 13,609 since service resumed on Monday.

TERRY AND THE PIRATES

Orange County Grand Jury Worried About Fish Cancer

The Orange County Grand Jury called Friday for studies "to obtain medical benefits from the sea," and warned that malformed and lesioned fish found near sewage outfalls may be cancerous.

"Cancers in fish are known to exist," the grand jury report said, adding that marine biologists cannot agree whether it is transmittable to man.

However, the jury noted, "it is known that man is susceptible to the chemical buildups in fish, especially shell fish, to which cancer may be attributable."

"Some marine biologists have expressed concern that a buildup of toxic and/or carcinogenic agents could destroy our marine resources, or . . . trigger an epidemic of cancer."

The grand jury warned that "the danger exists that the cumulative buildup may go undetected until it is too late to start corrective measures" of control.

It called for establishment of a proposed Institute of Marine Medicine and Pharmacology, "to include the medical world's coordination in marine-life knowledge."

There are "several prime factors lacking in the knowledge of marine ecology," the grand jury noted.

Among them is a "baseline" from which to judge normality or abnormality in sea life.

Another is "the ability to recognize and obtain the medical benefits from the sea."

The discovery of malformed fish near ocean outfalls was disclosed at a public hearing April 30 at Newport Beach, when suggestions of possible cancerous conditions of some species were made.

Subsequently, Congressman Richard T. Hanna, D-Fullerton, introduced HB 1711, calling for a marine medicine institute. The grand jury said it "heartily endorses" the proposal.

Its intention to pursue an investigation into offshore pollution was disclosed by the grand jury foreman, George G. Honold of Garden Grove.

He said the grand jury has invited grand juries of Riverside and San Bernardino counties to a joint meeting, to discuss plans of the water users in the upper counties to pipe non-reclaimable waste into the new five-mile-long ocean outfall being built by the sanitation districts of Orange County.

No date was set for the session.

HUGE FRAUD SUIT HITS BAJA HOMES PROJECT

United Press International

San Antonio Shores, a housing development in Baja California, Mexico, was sued for $25.7 million punitive damages Friday by the state of California.

The land is located about 12 miles south of Tijuana and the site is at the outfall for that city's sewer system, according to a statement filed with the suit.

"Sewage from said terminus meanders freely over the surface of the land at San Antonio Shores, cascades down a cliff there, and runs across the beach into the Pacific Ocean," the statement said.

TWO THOUSAND Californians have purchased as much as $10 million worth of lots at the development, the statement said. More than three million direct mail advertisements have been sent to residents of the state since 1963.

The principal defendant in the suit was Donald W. Eastvold, former attorney general for the State of Washington. A number of other individuals and two Mexican corporations also were named defendants.

"Enmeshed in the web of deception are co-conspirators who are businessmen and professionals privy to the frauds," the statement said, "but in at the center and pulling the strings is defendant Donald W. Eastvold."

THE SUIT charged that the defendants violated a desist and refrain order issued in 1968, engaged in false advertising, conspired to violate state law, violated the corporate securities law and engaged in fraudulent and unfair business practices.

The suit also asked the court to place all the assets of the defendants in escrow, including the funds held in various California banks.

The misrepresentations cited in the suit included statements concerning the alleged availability of: an 18-hole golf course, adequate potable water, sewage, paved streets, water sking facilities, fire protection and medical services. None of the services were available, the suit said.

Hepatitis Outbreak Closes Marin Lagoon

SAN RAFAEL (UPI) — Dr. Carolyn Albrecht, Marin County health director, said Friday an outbreak of viral hepatitis may have resulted from pollution of the Bolinas Lagoon by sewage.

An order was posted Aug. 14 by the State Department of Public Health banning all body contact with the lagoon's water — all swimming, fishing, boating and collecting of shellfish.

Dr. Albrecht said 12 cases of viral hepatitis, which sometimes is fatal, have occurred since early July.

Almost all the victims had been swimming in the lagoon, or belonged to families whose other members had done so. The disease is transmitted in food by close personal contacts and in food preparation.

The victims ranged widely in age, sex and occupation. More cases were expected to be reported later because the incubation period is three to six weeks.

C of C Report Sees 'People Problems' Key to Future of L.B.

"People problems" — including college-community relations, race relations and citizen participation in community life — are seen as major challenges to Long Beach in important report of a Task Force to the Chamber of Commerce.

It is believed that the report will have a strong influence on the philosophy and civic role of the business sector in the 1970s.

The 7,000-word statement was prepared at the request of Chamber President Roy L. Anderson by a high-level Task Force on Planning and Program Review under chairmanship of Don Ohl, editorial page editor of the Long Beach Independent Press-Telegram.

Final preparation of the 33-page document was directed by Don G. Gill, task force vice chairman, who is also a Chamber vice president for community affairs and a co-chairman of the Long Beach Mayor's Conference on Community Affairs.

The Task Force statement terms the 1970s a decade of "Renaissance" for Long Beach and suggests consideration of a renaissance theme for a coordinated program of community-wide attacks on problems and opportunities of the 1970s. "A theme that is compelling, challenging and expressive of what is happening to Long Beach and what we want to do with our City in this most important decade."

The statement is largely based upon testimony obtained last month in a series of Task Force meetings with city government, business community and volunteer organization leaders.

The report embraces sections on community organizations, socio-economic development, education, government, economic development and transportation.

President Anderson reports sub-task forces are now drafting implementation guidelines for policy formation and specific action in these areas. Final adoption is expected next month.

"This Task Force report is the third and most comprehensive of a series of examinations over the past three years that have had quite an impact upon the Chamber's organizational structure, program of work and utilization of volunteer resources.

"The prospects are excellent that the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce of 1980, not to mention other major volunteer organizations of the community, will be different in many respects from the one we know today.

"Some of the indicators of just how significant these changes may be are contained in the statement now under review," Anderson said.

The report calls for immediate and long range attention to "people problems," notably in the areas of college-community relations, race relations and citizen participation in the goal-setting and decision-making processes of community life.

"The Long Beach Mayor's Conference on Community Affairs is a step in the right direction but will not realize its full potential without greater participation from established leadership levels of the community," the report states.

The report addresses itself to dilemmas of program funding, leadership development and overlap and identifies subjects for immediate attention that include: follow-through on implementation of downtown revitalization, completion of a comprehensive general plan for the total community and a concentrated effort to attract regional and national headquarters offices to appropriately-zoned areas of the city.

Other subjects singled out for special attention are: establishment of a "balanced and reasonable" transportation mix for the community; adequate financing of public education and amendments to the City Charter, with attention to operation of the Long Beach City Assessor's office, procedures followed in election of Mayor and City Council and salary levels for these elective offices.

The report also stresses the importance of a free flow of communications to keep the citizens of Long Beach fully informed about the Queen Mary and Museum of the Sea and the importance of these projects to the community, the surrounding metropolitan area and to the State of California.

The report notes that community organizations will become more involved with government in the years ahead than they have in the past as they deal more and more with the complexities of urban problems that do not respect local boundaries.

"There is great need for new forms of metropolitan cooperation to strengthen and encourage inter-city and inter-agency coordination," the report states.

The report urges community organizations to become more selective in programs and projects they attempt to carry out and suggests consideration be given to changes in the ways business and community interests attempt to get things done through the Chamber of Commerce and related organizations.

"It is easy to be alarmed by change. We appear to be moving toward a society quite different from the one we now have. Powerful currents now flowing will take us progressively further from familiar practices and philosophies.

"The task is to decide what is relevant, what is important, what is valuable, so we can plot the correct course for our community organizations," the report states.

The Task Force suggests that although Long Beach enjoyed many well-recognized strengths and accumulated numerous achievements in the 1960s, it is important in the years ahead to identify and deal with its principal remaining weaknesses, generally in the areas of leadership, image and civic apathy.

"There is a tendency in Long Beach for many to step forward only when private interests are at stake. Long Beach also appears to suffer from a limited leadership hierarchy that is not representative of the people of the community.

"The people of Long Beach seem to suffer from an inferiority complex and a poverty of enthusiasm for major civic projects," the report states.

On the plus side, the Task Force describes the city's economy as "dynamic and well-diversified."

"Long Beach has a strong, centralized city government that is taking giant strides in the development of physical facilities.

WHAT'S YOUR PROBLEM?

Side-Preference Makes Appraisal Values Differ

By DON G. CAMPBELL

Beauty, they say, is strictly "in the beholder's eye." That's all very well, but it doesn't mollify the proud parents whose 6-year-old daughter has just lost her bid as "Miss Dimples of 1970." Nor, for that matter, does it do much for the real estate owner whose property has come out second-best in competition with a similar piece of property.

DEAR MR. CAMPBELL:

For several years, I have owned and managed a small "strip" shopping center in a progressive section of our city — 10 business establishments with adequate parking for their customers.

Now that I am about to retire, though, I have put the property on the market and had hoped that the appraisal of it would, eventually, give me about 100 per cent appreciation on what it cost me, originally, to build it.

You can imagine how shocked I was when the appraiser put a price on it that is only about 25 per cent above my investment, and it's about one-third of what an almost identical strip shopping center — only two blocks away — has traded for. I don't understand it at all. How can my property be worth a third of what a duplicate of it recently sold for right down the street?

I seriously think that I'm being taken and would like to know what you think I can do about it.

MR. W. V. A.

ANSWER: Well, for one, you can get another appraisal. You should be prepared for the possibility, though, that the second one won't turn out any more favorably than the first one.

I can't blame you for your puzzlement, but, on the other hand, you must remember that you are not exactly looking at the problem through completely impartial eyes — your shopping center and the one down the street may seem identical to you but, in actuality, may be considerably different to the observer who doesn't have your emotional attachment.

There are, for instance, "good" sides and "bad" sides to streets lined by commercial property, and they can make a tremendous difference in the selling price even though no one, with any sense of logic, can explain why the side-preference exists in the first place.

I am assuming that your appraiser used the "Market data approach" in determining the logical selling price of your property which is probably the most widely used of the three prevalent methods of appraisal and, normally, the most realistic. The other two methods are the "cost approach," which estimates what the cost would be to reconstruct the property, less allowances for depreciation, and the "income approach." The latter estimates the income potential of a property as an indication of its value through capitalization.

The "market data approach," on the other hand, uses bits and pieces of the other two methods but, in addition, takes into account such other things as the prices paid for similar properties, prices asked by owners, offers made by interested purchasers willing to buy, rents and leases prevailing in the same area, and other social and economic factors affecting marketability.

There's no way in the world — at this distance — of knowing why your property did so poorly in the appraisal department, but there's probably a good basis for it. "Good," at least, in the eye of the appraiser who did it. Try it again and see what a second appraisal says.

DEAR MR. CAMPBELL:

I was interested in reading your discussion recently about how "points" are figured, but my real estate broker tells me that is really an interest charge that is paid by the seller. I believe it would be appreciated by a lot of people if you would follow-up an article in the paper explaining this more fully. I'm still puzzled.

Mrs. R.E.Y.

ANSWER: Sorry if I didn't make it clear on the last time around. Actually, when we're talking about "an interest charge that is paid by the seller" — we're talking about a discount, the cost of which is borne by the seller.

If you're selling a house carrying a $15,000 mortgage, for instance, it may develop that you — as the seller — are going to have to "give up," say, 6 "points" before the lender will give you would-be-buyer the mortgage.

This means that you're going to have to shave your price down six percentage points — from $15,000 to $14,000 — as a "sweetener" for the lender. The lender, of course, writes the mortgage for the full $15,000 and, over the life of the mortgage, collects interest on the full $15,000, but it's you, the seller, who has to take up the slack by lowering the price the compensating six per cent.

I HOPE that clarifies it.

MR. CAMPBELL:

I read in a recent column where this retired person was investing in United States Treasury bills at 6.35 per cent. Could you give me more information about this type of investment? Where would one go to buy? In what denominations do they come? For how long a period is the money tied up? Is there a market for them if one is forced to sell before maturity?—Mr. T. E.

ANSWER: Well, you might know that Uncle Sam—in his infinite wisdom—would step in, sooner or later, and foul up a good deal. Because the Treasury bills proved so popular with small investors, the government stepped in recently and slapped a minimum investment of $10,000 on them. It had previously been $1,000 and, harassed by continuing inflation, small investors were queuing up in front of banks all over the country to buy these almost fool-proof securities.

Fearing that the stampede to buy the Treasury bills was causing a serious drain on banks and savings and loan associations, Uncle Sam moved in and cut the little investor out of the picture with the new minimum order.

If you've got $10,000, however, they are still a good deal. These are short-term loans made by the government to cover its day-to-day expenses and, while maturing in either 90 to 180 days, can be "turned over" indefinitely at near-record yields and can be sold, quite handily, at any time before maturity.

MR. CAMPBELL:

This doesn't have to do with real estate, but could you tell me if when you invest your money in stocks and bonds, you are liable to make up for losses of the company? Is it safe to invest just small amounts in stocks and bonds, and does the law protect the investors better these days?—Mrs. G. C. W.

ANSWER: When you buy stocks and bonds, you're not becoming a full-fledged partner in the company, of course, and so the amount of loss that you can incur is no more than your initial investment — for whatever comfort that's worth!

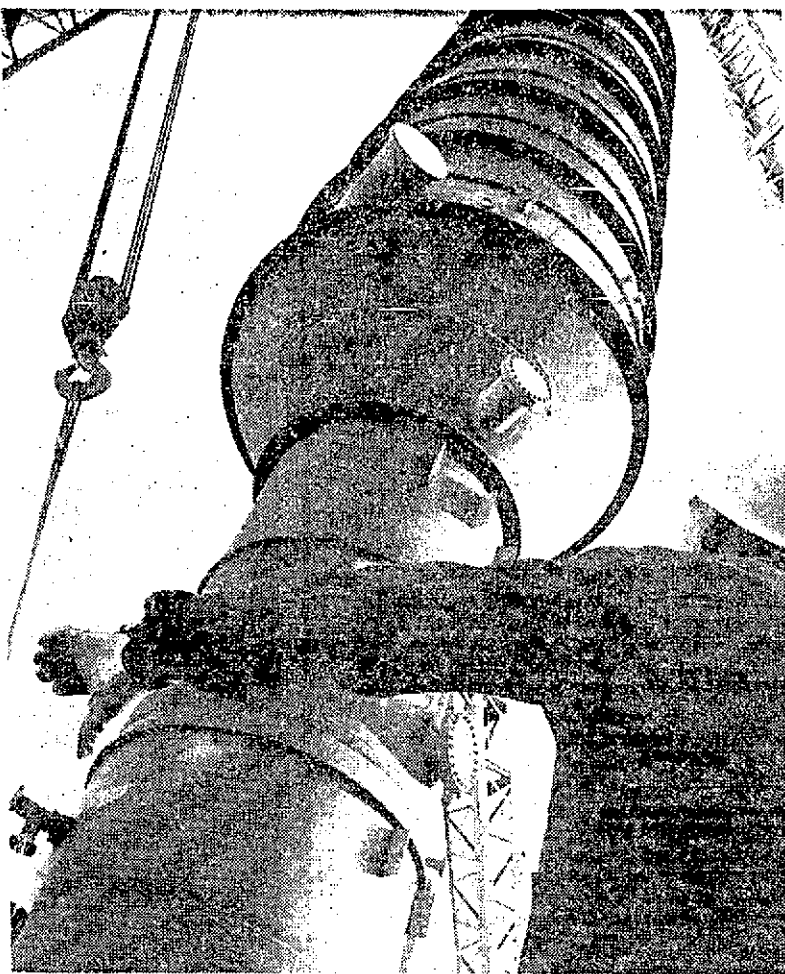

Should the company go into bankruptcy, that is, you as a stockholder or a bondholder, would not be called upon to help make up any debts outstanding.

Hopefully, the Securities and Exchange Commission protects investors better today than was the case 30 to 40 years ago. But the market is still a place to be very, very careful.

MR. CAMPBELL:

I am prepared to loan a close relative a sum of money by taking a second contract on his home. It is about half paid for and I would like to know the simplest and the least expensive method of handling such a transaction. —Mr. A.H.P.

ANSWER: When you're talking about money, and the possibility of perhaps losing it, "the simplest and the least expensive method of handling such a transaction" is to hire a lawyer and have the thing done right in the first place. Cutting corners is invariably the most expensive way of doing it.

BIG LIFT AT UNION

By carefully calculated and planned technique, 200 tons of vacuum distillation column was tilted up and onto a concrete pad at Union Oil Company of California San Francisco Refinery at Rodeo. The 136-foot high prefractionator unit was hoisted into place by Bechtel Corporation engineers, designing and building Union Oil's Unicracker Complex. When installed, the prefractionator—which is 21 feet in diameter at its widest—will process over 25,000 barrels of coker gas oil daily and provide the feed charge for the uncracker complex plus other petroleum distillate products.

The Old Farm Isn't What It Used to Be

The old farm, where so many of us spent our childhood, is something different now. These statistics from New Holland Division of Sperry Rand Corp., New Holland, Pa., tell you some of the differences.

The average size farm in the United States in 1969 was 377 acres, one-third larger than in 1959.

About 19 per cent of the 510 million acres of commercial forest land in the United States is in the National Forest System. Private ownership accounts for 72 per cent and the balance is in other state, federal and local holdings.

World agricultural production increased about 3 per cent in 1968. The rise in the United States was just under 2 per cent.

Milk production in the United States in 1969 totaled 116.2 billion pounds, about 1 per cent less than in 1968.

In 1968, 58 per cent of the United States production of vegetables was mechanically harvested.

Farmers in the United States today produce nearly three times as much per man-hour of work as in 1950 and over six times as much as in 1920, according to New Holland Division of Sperry Rand.

American consumers spent 16.5 per cent of their disposable income for food in 1969, compared with 20 per cent in 1959, according to New Holland Division of Sperry Rand.

The price of food purchased for use at home increased 25.8 per cent in the ten-year period ending December, 1969, while the overall cost of living rose 31.3 per cent.

American consumers spent $104 billion for food in 1969.

Farming uses more petroleum than any other single industry, according to New Holland, the farm equipment division of Sperry Rand.

The land and buildings of the average United States farm are worth $100,000.

The wheat in a loaf of bread which sells for 22.2 cents brings the farmer 2.5 cents.

SPACEMAN OR BEEKEEPER?

This Goodyear engineer, wearing garb that seems designed for a spaceman or beekeeper, removes a metallic brake lining for aircraft from a graphite die heated to 2,000 degrees F. The heat is provided by an induction coil surrounding the die. The process permits manufacture of parts made of dissimilar materials which cannot be combined by other industrial methods.

ANAHEIM — Butterfield Land Corporation, a subsidiary of Coldwell Banker & Co., has created a new department in their mobile home division to provide immediate on-site service for the mobile home owner. Through this department, Butterfield Land Corporation offers a full year's coach warranty in the buyer. The appointment of James Moore as service manager, who will set up and head this new department, was announced by Tom Stevens, Butterfield general sales manager. Initial operations will be at the Golden Coach of Anaheim Mobile Home Park, 1400 Douglas Avenue, off Katella near the Anaheim Stadium.

NEWARK, N.J. (UPI) — First Small Business Investment Corp. of New Jersey has decided to stop making loans and lay plans to liquidate.

The company said present conditions do not make it possible to envision a sufficient return on capital in future to justify any new operations.

Americans to Reverse Life Style, Live in Apartments, Ride Trains

By LEROY POPE
UPI Business Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Some millions of Americans are expected to switch from living in individual houses and driving to and from work to living in apartments and traveling on new high-speed rapid transit lines in the next two decades.

This clear reversal of the living patterns of Americans for the past 40 years is being predicted by city planners, transit engineers and some industrial experts.

G. W. Jernstedt of Westinghouse Electric Corp., a company heavily involved in developing rapid transit systems, is convinced the trend already is under way.

"Climbing construction costs, rising interest rates and increasing real estate taxes already have initiated the trend toward apartment living, especially for people in the moderate income range," Jernstedt says. "as better rapid transit systems develop, the convenience of good transportation will make nearby apartment living even more desirable."

But the new living pattern will not be a success unless the new rapid transit systems are designed according to a multifunction approach that will promote urban growth. Jernstedt claims. Many city planners in the United States and abroad agree.

They say the answer to traffic strangulation and urban decay lies in developing balanced systems of transport, including a good mix of highways, rapid transit and conventional mass transit.

It is most vital, they argue, that a transit line and its stations provide multifunctional centers and shape the development of the community and not just follow the drift or urban sprawl.

In this respect the Europeans appear to be ahead of us because of the necessity imposed by their land shortages. The new Taby Center subway station in a Stockholm suburb is a case in point. From an airplane the Taby Center looks like a concentric ring of semi-circular buildings. Housed in it are 14 separate functions — schools, apartment houses, a shopping center, a medical center, a sports center and gymnasium and churches.

In Europe, at least twice as large a proportion of the people always have lived in apartments as in the United States mainly because there isn't enough cheap land to put up one-family homes on the scale

Americans have built them.

This has compelled European cities to stick to public transportation while, for the most part, American cities have allowed their street car and bus lines and commuter railroads to decay and go broke. One reason for the current crushing financial troubles of the Penn Central is the heavy losses of its commuter lines serving New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and Washington.

The decay of public transportation went so far in the United States that when the San Francisco Bay area rapid transit system was opened it was the first entirely new fast transit system in the country to be built in 60 years.

But during the 1970s, 11 of our big cities will build new automated rapid transit systems — Washington, Los Angeles, Seattle, Atlanta, Pittsburgh, Baltimore, Buffalo, St. Louis, Dallas, Houston and Detroit.

A congressional subcommittee took sufficient interest recently in the need for more suburban and interurban rapid transit to add $11 million to President Nixon's budget request. It also earmarked $21.7 million for research and demonstration projects in fast railway transport during the coming year.

Belief that better rapid transit can stop the decay of the inner cities is growing among city planners. It is pointed out that, while New York has had plenty of drift of population to the suburbs and decay of residential areas inside the city, many new office buildings have been built on the sites of tenements torn down.

Toronto's shabby old central business district suddenly sprang to life after the Canadian metropolis built its subway soon after World War II. In 10 years, about $2 billion worth of new office buildings and high rise apartments went up for each mile of the subway system. Some of the land bought for the Toronto transit system at $100,000 an acre recently has been sold at $2.5 million an acre.

San Francisco's new Market Street subway has resulted in contracts to build 500 stories of new office buildings in a district previously threatened seriously by urban blight.

Under the 1964 Federal Urban Mass Transportation Act, cities are supposed to be able to get up to two-thirds of the capital financing of new rapid transit systems from Uncle Sam. The joker is that Congress hasn't appropriated the funds, but most persons who are knowledgeable about the problem believe Congress ultimately will do so.

Richard A. Pratt has been named director of sales and marketing for Crestwood Homes in Fountain Valley, according to Dale Stuard, builder of the 48 unit development at Slater Avenue and Magnolia Street. Pratt was formerly with Walker & Lee and was that firm's leading salesman during the first quarter of this year. He lives in Fountain Valley with his wife and two children.

NEW YORK (UPI) — It takes time to build a solid base for the market after the "quicksand footing of the late 1960's," says Harris, Upham & Co. The necessary adjustments are being made, however, the firm believes. The speculative sections have been toned down and the market is carefully weighing the many good and bad features of the economy. The supply and cost of money and credit are the most conclusive factors in controlling security prices, says Wright Investors' Service. The 1969-70 decline in market values was directly caused by a severe, deliberate shrinkage in the supply of money and credit, it says. An expansionary policy and upward price trend, however, have been in progress for the past two and one-half months and should continue for the next several years, the firm says. Hoppin Bros. & Co. finds August "the kookiest month" with a notable reputation for providing non-significant and misleading stock market trends. It is dangerous to forecast future trends from August because that is "the time of the year when the moguls are away soaking up sunshine and the market is left to the ribbon clerks," the firm said.

August is a dull month and unusually dull this year because of "abnormal activity" by the funds who, while holding about 70 per cent of the stocks, aren't doing that much trading, said W. E. Hutton & Co. Beyond the seasonal factors is the fact there simply is no incentive to trade. There is no urgency and little incentive to buy, the firm said.

GI HOME LOANS
GI Home Loan Applications decreased from 2,973 in June to 2,707 in July. Martin J. May, VA's Southern California acting director, reported today. Appraisal requests for existing homes decreased from 4,752 in June to 4,598 in July, and appraisal requests for new homes decreased from 1,764 in June to 1,647 in July.

PORTS O' PROGRESS

By JACK O. BALDWIN
Marine Editor

Future Los Angeles Harbor Department plans include removal of the Ferry Building on Terminal Island.

This has Jack Fennie, president of Catalina Freight Line, concerned.

All but a few small packages which are flown to Catalina Island move via Catalina Freight Line on barges loaded and unloaded utilizing the old ferry loading ramp.

Fennie has requested the Harbor Department give consideration to relocating the barge-loading operation before the department "irrevocably decides on the removal of our present facilities."

Fennie notes:

"A poor move could be a disaster for the Catalina Freight Line."

We are left to ponder if such a move would be disastrous to the freight line, what effect it would have on the residents of Catalina Island.

THE MV LODESTONE arrived in the Port of Los Angeles last Saturday after leaving Lisbon on her maiden voyage which was shorter by 18 hours than the speed record set by a sister ship two months ago.

The 22½ knot ItalPacific made the trip in 14 days, 14 hours.

In addition to innovations of cargo handling facilities, the vessel is equipped with a complete sewage treatment plant which automatically provides full biological and chemical treatment to every gallon of waste produced aboard ship.

The disposal plant will provide treated waters purer than required by even the most rigorous standards now being formulated by ports and seaways around the world, her designers claim.

A FULL BOATLOAD of some of the world's top ocean scientists were provided a ship-to-shore view of "America's Most Modern Port" this week.

Port of Long Beach officials hosted 120 scientists attending the five-day International Symposium on Naval Hydrodynamics at the California Institute of Technology.

The conference was co-sponsored by the institute and the U.S. Naval Undersea Research and Development Center.

While the scientists may be talented in "Les affaires du mer," they would hardly qualify as experts in picking titles to be displayed on theater marquees.

Envision this title on a marquee: "Resonant Response of Harbors, the Harbor Paradox Revisited."

WISE ONE

Earl C. Crandall, 4426 Blackthorne, Long Beach, E. R. Squibb & Sons, Inc., hospital sales representative in the Santa Ana division, was recently selected for membership in the company's "Hakeem Honor Society" in recognition of his being one of the most outstanding salesmen in the Squibb organization. The name of the Society is derived from Hakeem, the Wise One, described in Squibb's well-known "Priceless Ingredient Story." It honors and pays tribute to those representatives in the field who have displayed extraordinary and devoted effort in their work and, in addition, have 20 years or more of service and a business-volume achievement far beyond the company's national average.

TRANSFERRED

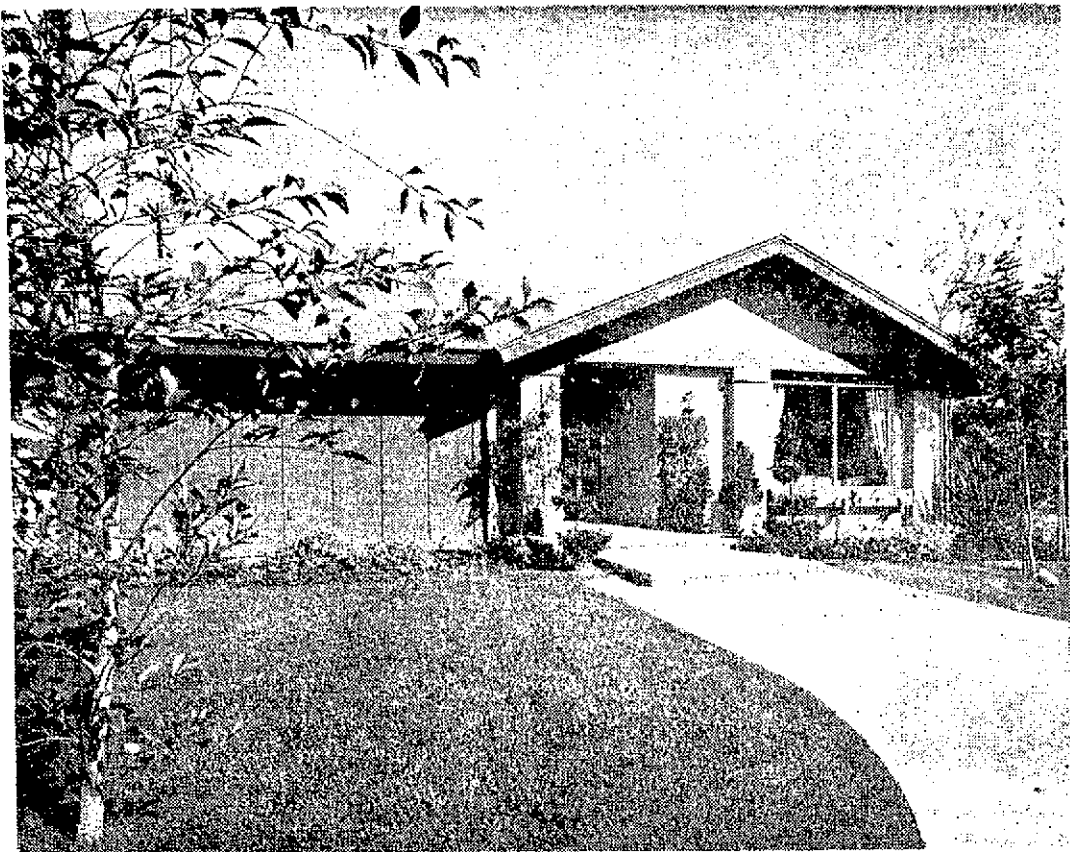

Harvey Ferguson, assistant vice president of First Western Bank, is transferring to the Pacific office in Long Beach from the Orange County Regional Office in Santa Ana, where he was assistant manager in charge of operations.

MANAGER

Earl A. Neeb has been named Manager-Steel Mill Operations for the Soule Steel Company mill located in Long Beach, California. The announcement was made today by Edward Lee Soule, Jr., president of Soule Steel Company. Neeb will be responsible for Soule's entire steel making operation which provides 100 per cent of Soule's reinforcing steel and fence post and merchant mill requirements. The Soule mill employs approximately 200 men.

Over the next four to six weeks, most stocks seem likely to head downward, with many of the weakest performers making new lows and large numbers of others backing down from heavy lines of resistance, according to TPO Inc. This could prove healthy in the long run, provided the fact that so many market analysts have turned bullish, so many economists have embraced the idea that the economy is looking up and so many members of the administration have pooh-poohed the existence of a recession is noteworthy and a cause of some concern.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Combustion Engineering Co. has landed one of the largest boiler contracts in history from Continental Can Co. It calls for delivery of a chemical recovery boiler and a power boiler to Continental Can's Hodge, La., mill. The chemical recovery boiler will be able to process 3.7

Food Firm Plans Inflation Fight

A new plan to combat inflation and the spiraling cost of living will be introduced to the public in September by Hunt-Wesson Foods, Inc., a subsidiary of Norton Simon Inc. The plan entitled "We'll Help You Make It" was announced last week by Edward Gelshtorpe, president of the major California-based food firm.

The overall objective of the program is to help families in all income groups live successfully within their food budgets while understanding and meeting necessary nutritional standards.

"We'll Help You Make It" will offer each family a month's menus based on the family size and its ages and the actual dollar amount it can spend on food purchases. Each day's menu plan includes breakfast, lunch and dinner. It will also include cooking suggestions and buying tips.

The program will serve family budgets ranging from under $20 to more than $50 per week, and will relate to families of all sizes. The menus will be available to consumers at no cost. People of every income group are expected to participate including those receiving food stamps.

The program is simple but unique.

Consumers will be invited to fill out a coupon obtainable from newspaper and magazine ads, or participating grocery stores and supermarkets. Consumers will list the number of adults, and the number and ages of the children in the family group. They will also be asked to check the amount of their weekly food budget. This coupon will be mailed to Hunt-Wesson's computer meal planning center in Dayton, Ohio. The IBM 360 Model 40 computer has been programmed to select a month's menu plan, personalized for the individual family and its food budget.

This menu is sent to the consumer together with recipes, cooking suggestions and wise buying tips. The program also supports and makes use of the United States Department of Agriculture's Plentiful Foods lists to maximize seasonally food economies and gain public awareness of the USDA program. Importantly, each day's menu plan is balanced nutritionally and helps support the Food Council of America's program which is designed to educate the American consumer on the importance of nutrition in the diet.

The "We'll Help You Make It" program is Phase Two of a low cost cookery campaign that Hunt-Wesson initiated last year. The first phase was dedicated to help educate consumers to the potentials of more modestly priced and nutritional foods, and published the USDA Plentiful Foods list. At the time, the company introduced special cook books and sent home economists into many communities throughout the nation to further the concept of low-cost cooking.

"We'll Help You Make It" and its specific menu plans, is the second phase of this program.

The advertising campaign, designed to bring "We'll Help You Make It" to the attention of the American housewife, got under way the last week in August. The media schedule will include multiple insertions in a comprehensive list of 155 newspapers including the Independent, Press-Telegram as well as both spreads and pages in Life, McCall's, Redbook, Better Homes and Gardens and Family Circle. More than 123,000,000 in-store coupons will be distributed.

A total of at least $2.5 million will be spent on the project. Investment in menu plans alone is estimated in excess of $500,000.

Mr. Gelshtorpe said, "We believe this program will contribute genuine service to the public in keeping with Hunt-Wesson's position as a responsible corporate citizen."

"In this period of continuing increases in the cost of living, it is important to give consumers an opportunity to keep family food budgets under as much control as possible — while still providing them with nutritional and appealing menus," Gelshtorpe added. "We feel our 'We'll Help You Make It' program takes a significant step in that direction."

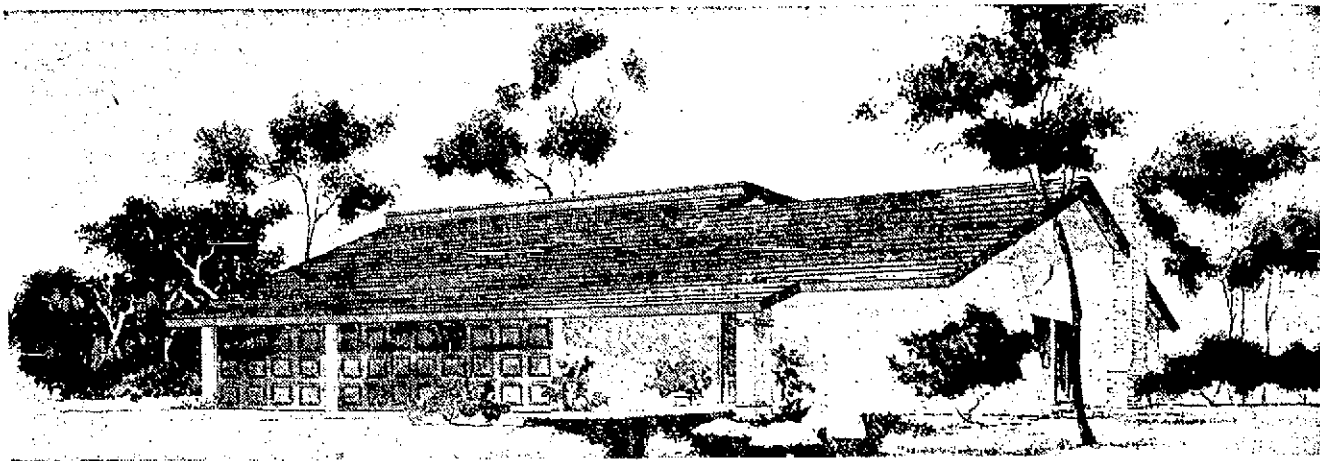

The "We'll Help You Make It" program is a result of a plea made by President Nixon in his inaugural address on January 20, 1969. In discussing the problem of growing inflation and other domestic challenges of the 1970's, President Nixon stated, "We are approaching the limits of what government can do alone. Our greatest need now is to reach beyond government, to enlist the legions of the concerned and the committed. What has to be done has to be done by the government and the people together or it will not be done at all."

Hunt-Wesson Foods took up the President's call to action by preparing perhaps the first nationally scaled program on the part of private industry. The project is a serious effort on the part of Hunt-Wesson to help curb inflation and, even more important, to help all income groups plan nutritionally sound and appetizing meals on a limited food budget.

Young & Rubicam, Los Angeles, is the agency on the account.

Troy Cerritos Buyers Can Move in Now

Buyers of homes at Troy Cerritos, a development of The McCarthy Company at 195th Street and Bloomfield Avenue in Cerritos, can move in before school starts reports William Schulz, marketing director for the company.

"Production schedules have been stepped up to provide homes for those who wish to be sure of both a home and schools for their children," said Mr. Schulz.

"We have planned these new homes to take advantage of the outstanding schools for all ages in the Cerritos area, all of them nearby. We will have completions coming up to assist the family in establishing their living here. There will be no delay in moving in and no delay in enrolling in schools when they start this fall."

Three schools are within walking distance of Troy Cerritos. These include Carver Elementary School, Tetzlaff Junior High School and Artesia High School.

A new high school, as yet not named, will be completed in the fall of 1971. It is also within walking distance at 183rd Street and Bloomfield Avenue, the farthest away of any of the schools.

Troy Cerritos is in the center of a network of five freeways, which makes driving to work for heads of the family a lot easier, and has an elaborate park system, featuring a scheduled 80 acre regional park across Bloomfield Avenue from the development.

Prices range from $28,950 to $34,950 for one and two story models with up to five bedrooms.

Troy Cerritos can be reached by turning off Santa Ana Freeway at Carmanita Road and proceeding south to South Street, then right to Bloomfield Avenue, and then left to the project. Furnished models are open from 10 a.m. to dusk daily.

Wall Street Briefs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — General Dynamics Corp. has obtained a $5.2 million Navy contract for preparatory work on the overhaul and modification of the nuclear-powered ballistic carrying submarine George Washington Carrier.

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — Apache Corp. has brought in a 2,054-barrel-a-day oil well in the Hilight field of Campbell County, Wyo. The oil was struck at a depth of 9,439 feet.

MOUNTAIN VIEW (UPI) — Fairchild Camera & Instrument Corp. announced an economy program, including executive salary cuts of less than 10 per cent because of the business slowdown.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Securities and Exchange Commission has suspended Thomas D. Ledwith, a former official of Marine Midland Grace Trust Co., from the securities business for three months. Ledwith was found guilty of providing secret clearing facilities for a group of traders in government securities.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Moore-McCormack Lines, Inc., has sold four ships of the Sea-Bridge class to a new subsidiary of American Export Isbrandtsen for $38.4 million. All the vessels were built last year for the roll-on roll-off container trade. The deal is subject to approval of the Maritime Commission.

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Procter & Gamble's Paper Products Division announced Wednesday plans to build a household paper products converting plant at Modesto, which will employ approximately 350 people when production begins in late 1971.

The Chairman Paper Products Co., a subsidiary of Procter & Gamble, will build and operate the Modesto plant.

Fruin-Colton Contracting Co., St. Louis Mo., will be the general contractor, and engineering and design work will be handled by the Bechtel Corp., San Francisco, Calif.

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — McDonnell Douglas Corp. has awarded a $7.6 million contract to Litton Industries, Inc., of Woodland Hills, to develop an inertial navigation set for the F15 fighter jet aircraft.

The company announced Wednesday the price includes design and production of 24 navigation sets for preproduction testing.

McDonnell Douglas will award a production contract later.

The navigation set provides the basic navigating data for the F15 and will enable the aircraft to navigate anywhere in the world, the company said.

NEW YORK (UPI) — We are in a socio-economic limbo and it is because of this that European and U.S. professional investors are avoiding the U.S. Stock Market, says Hopkin Bros. & Co.

The firm disagrees with the current bear argument that "bureaucracy is in complete control" and is stifling private initiative. The basic assumptions of the 1960s are still valid and will be reevaluated despite recent shaking of faith, along with a retrenching of the country's international commitments, the firm believes. The bull market to come will rest on a base far more solid than the last bull market, it adds.

DETROIT (UPI) — Burroughs Corp. has obtained a $6.8 million order from the Postal Department for 50 high speed electronic letter sorting machines.

SYRACUSE (UPI) — Carrier Corp. announced it is joining Mechanical Technology, Inc., of Latham, N.Y., to set up a company to be called Turbonetics, Inc., to engage in research and manufacture of various high speed turbine and rotating devices. Although Carrier will invest $2.5 million and have an option to acquire control later, Mechanical Technology will have two-thirds of the venture initially.

NEW YORK (UPI) — From a technical standpoint, Goodbody & Co. says, the market remains in a strong position, with indications of a short-term objective of 750 to 770 for the Dow Jones Industrial Average. Market performance has been encouraging recently, it says. Trading volume dried up when prices were declining and increased on the advances, and leadership has remained primarily with better quality issues, which may reflect fund buying, the firm says.

Sophisticated investors often appraise utility stocks as bond substitutes and determine the current return to include not only earnings paid out as dividends but also those reinvested in the business to provide for future growth in earnings and dividends, says Shearson, Hammill & Co. When bond yields are higher than utility E-P ratios, the firm says, these investors switch into bonds, and vice versa.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Navy announced the keel will be laid for the nuclear-powered, attack aircraft carrier Dwight D. Eisenhower Aug. 15 at the Newport News, Va., yard of Newport News shipbuilding & Dry Dock Co. The late president's grandson, Dwight D. Eisenhower II, will represent the Eisenhower family at the ceremony.

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — McCulloch Oil Corp. has completed the most important well so far in the Denver-Julesburg basin near Denver, Colo. The well flowed on test at a rate of 1,056 barrels of 40 degree gravity oil from the "D" sand formation at a depth of 6,400 feet. So far, McCulloch and Sundance Oil Co. have brought in 11 wells in the tract.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Power Commission turned down an application from Cities Service Gas Co. to build a $15.3 million pipeline across Central Missouri. The commission said high interest rates on the present market would make the construction cost economically unfeasible.

NEW YORK (UPI) — The nation's fire loss dropped 5 per cent in June from May to $177.67 million, the National Insurance Actuarial and Statistical Association reports. However, the loss from the first half of the year was up 14.9 per cent from a year ago.

EL SEGUNDO (UPI) — Wyle Laboratories' American Tool Division has agreed to market a broad line of machine tools made in Bangalore, India, by Hindustan Machine Tools, Ltd., in the Western Hemisphere. American Tool will re-engineer the products for Western requirements.

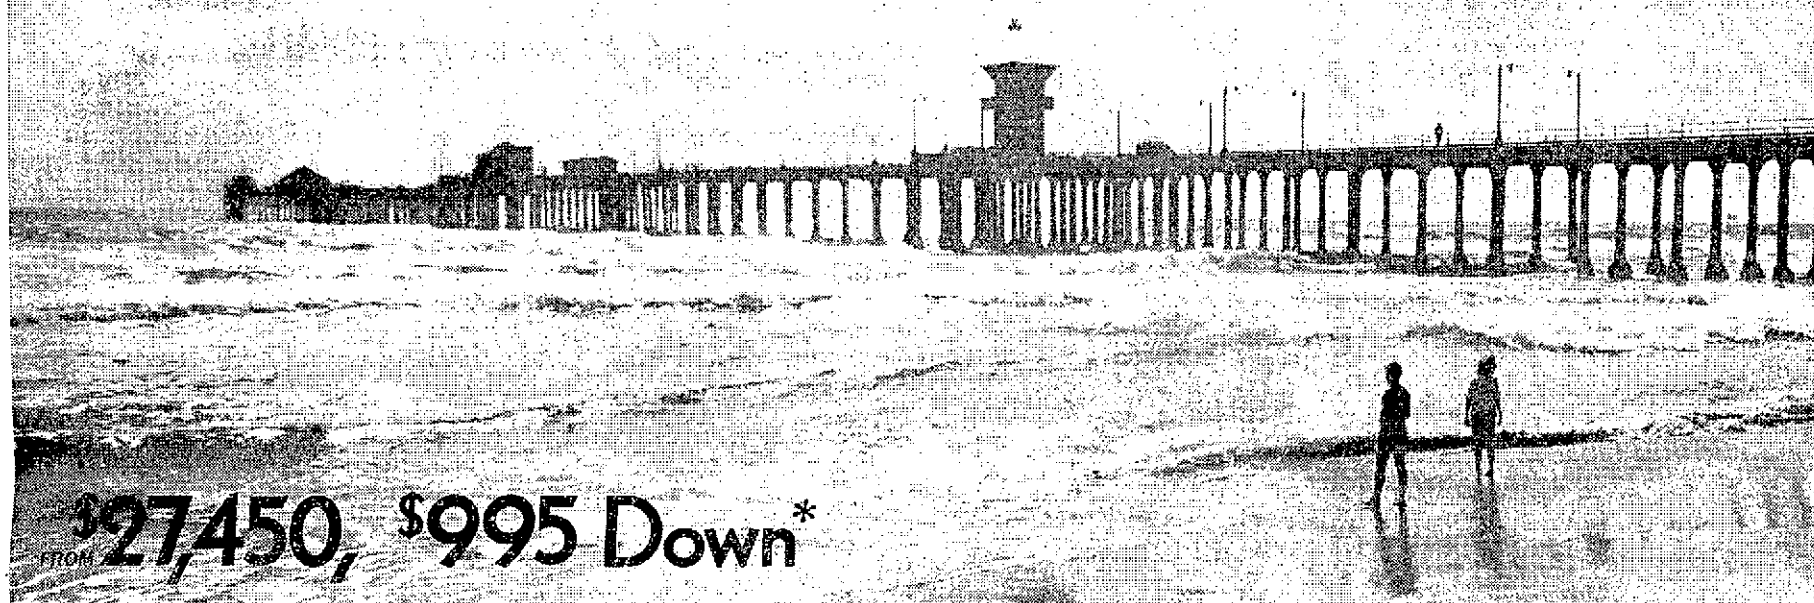

NEW YORK (UPI) — International Telephone & Telegraph Corp. has confirmed reports current in Canada that it is contemplating a large new investment in the Port Cartier area of Quebec and is negotiating the matter with Quebec provincial authorities. But the company refused to identify the project.

CLEVELAND (UPI) — A.T.O., Inc., said its automatic sprinkler division has joined Bronswek Co. of Holland in a venture to market fire protection equipment and services internationally. The new firm will be based at Amersfoort and subsidiaries will be set up in Germany, Belgium and Spain.

RYE, N.Y. (UPI) — Dictaphone Corp. said it soon will start marketing a new series of tape winder-editors, dual cassette hub leading machines and other products developed by its Scully Recording Instruments Division to manufacturers of tape cassettes and cartridges.

Just as consumer prices are the last area to respond to anti-inflation efforts, so stocks are the first to move up as credit restraints are relaxed, says Spear and Staff. The odds favor an upsurge in the market in coming months, as the rate of inflation slows, the firm believes.

BETH PAGE, N.Y. (UPI) — Grumman Corp. has formed a new marketing subsidiary, Grumman Pacific, Ltd., and expects to base it in Singapore under Robert W. Somerville. The company will sell and service both military and commercial aircraft.

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Utah Construction & Mining Co. said a strike has halted pre-mining surface stripping operations at its Shirley Basin uranium mine in Wyoming. The union, a local of district 50 of the United Mine Workers, is seeking higher wages than those prevailing in nearby mines.

Hodges Opens New Office, Celebrates 41st Birthday

"Life begins at 40" is more than an axiom with Rex L. Hodges Realty, according to President Bob Westmyer, who announced the second new office opening within six months for his 41-year-old organization.

In February the firm christened its new Dutch Village office at 5549 Woodruff Ave. Its success and growth highlighted the need for additional facilities to serve the company's volume of business between its Westminster and Lakewood branches.

Ray Hillhouse, longtime resident of the Lakewood-Cypress area, will manage the new facility. Over 200 Hodges associates and friends gathered at 4451 E. Cerritos Ave., Cypress, to celebrate the new office opening and the firm's 41st birthday.

Westmyer commented at the opening, "We owe a deep thanks and appreciation to over 85,000 previous customers, who not only made possible our growth and development over the past years, but more particularly our gratitude for their continued repeat business that presently accounts for approximately 47 per cent of the Rex Hodges sales volume."

It's this repeat business that has accounted for the Hodges company's 12 per cent increase over last year's volume during a period when the industry as a whole is experiencing a 22 per cent decline, he said.

Westmyer attributed much of the company's expanded sales volume to "the efforts of Vice President Bernie Jones, and his

PRESIDENT

James H. McCarthy, who has been active in home building and real estate development in the Southland for 37 years, has been named president of the Anaheim Union Water Co. The Anaheim firm is a subsidiary of Pacific Holding Corp. of New York.

personally conducted sales and marketing training program."

Westmyer also called attention to the growth in extra benefits for customers through the Rex Hodges "Family of Companies."

"It's through this 'Family of Companies' that our associates can now offer One-Stop Lifetime Service' with reliability that is second to none," he said.

"Likewise, once a person does business with any one of the Hodges Family of Companies at no cost to them they acquire what might be called a Master Key that unlocks contacts for consultation and advice with top executives of each company on matters that are their life specializations. These contacts and extra benefits can and often do save clients thousands of dollars plus a lifetime of peace of mind in matters of Insurance, Real Estate, Escrows, Mortgage Loans, Property Rental and Management, Appraisal Values, Title, Estate, Legal and investment problems."

Westmyer concluded, "With this broad foundation of resources at our fingertips we know for example that within the last month the Real Estate market has turned. Interest rates have dropped and better financing is available. We also know that right now at the turn around of the market is the best time to buy because of the better selection now available and the price breaks that will not last long when these lower interest rates filter out throughout the housing industry."

PROMOTED

Gary Brooks has been promoted to assistant vice president and escrow director for Grant Company of California, it was announced today (July 29), by Richard L. Owen, executive vice president of the parent Grant Corporation. Brooks had been an administrative assistant with responsibilities in the fields of purchasing and construction. Prior to joining the Grant Company in 1967, he was self-employed in the building products field.

TOP HONOR

Eve Ownbey was awarded top sales honors for the month of July by Katella Realty Inc. Her sales volume was in excess of $196,000.00. In 1964 she entered the real estate profession and was attracted to the growth of Orange County where she affiliated with Katella Realty in February 1969. Mrs. Ownbey is herself a real estate broker and works from the company office at 15580 Brookhurst in Westminster.

Desert Is Not So Bad If You Go First Class

PALM SPRINGS — Desert weather was an unlikely and capricious host this week as a dozen of California's top TV and radio weather forecasters gathered here to see if it really was as hot as you-know-what.

The get-together grew out of a tempest over temperatures.

Local hoteliers and the city's Convention & Visitors Bureau were fired by the weathercasters' uncompromising references to Palm Springs' summer heat. Pointing out that low humidity made mid-year temperatures far more bearable than some of the celebrated coastal cities and resorts, city tourism officials invited the weathermen to come sample the "no-smog, no-gunk-in-the-air" climate.

Arriving by car or through special Air California arrangements, the visitors—representing local and network stations in Los Angeles, San Diego, San Jose and San Francisco—took up the challenge. They brought their wives and a collective sense of humor.

The hosts greeted them with deluxe bungalow suites, an elegant swimming pool, car rentals and an irresistible round of brunches, dinners and cocktail parties—all air-conditioned, of course.

It was obvious that whatever their differences, everyone was going have a good time. And they did. The visitors went swimming, shopping, golfing and sunning, warming to the climate and the city. They left assuring their hosts they did indeed have a legitimate cause for promoting Palm Springs as a summer resort.

All this time, however, the weather apparently was undecided as to which faction it would favor. It provided alternately clear and hazy skies, and a sporadic cloud cover that kept temperatures "down" to the very low 100's and humidity higher than normal.

The weather did make one positive contribution, however, by holding off on a rare and unseasonable threat until after the visitors departed. Then it rained.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Besides the usual summer doldrums, the highly uncertain investment climate is contributing to the lack of buying interest, Alexander Hamilton Institute says. It is highly likely, the firm says, that the Dow Jones Industrial Average will fall back to its May 1970 low of 831. Build up cash reserves for the still developing long-pull buying opportunities, the company advises.

BINGHAMTON, N.Y. (UPI) — British Overseas Airways Corp. has ordered a flight simulator for the Boeing 707-336 C aircraft from Link-Miles, Ltd., a subsidiary in Britain of Singer Co. It will employ the Link-built variable anamorphic motion picture system to simulate severe flight problems.

PHOTOGRAPHER KENT HENDERSON (STRIPED TIE) AND RUSSIAN 'CAPTORS'

'FOAM' LOOSENS TONGUE

Russ 'Torture' I, P-T Staffer Aboard Ship

By KENT HENDERSON
Staff Photographer

I was hustled down the dim hatchway, down a series of ladders . . . escorted into a small crowded room with a tiny porthole for ventilation.

Before the lights were turned on I was startled by a pop and then a slow hissing sound. The latter, I found out later, was the foaming over of warm beer—I was a prisoner of the Russians!

This all developed from an assignment as photographer for the Independent Press-Telegram—to get a picture of the Captain of the USSR Seskar with one of the oceanography students aboard.

I found out that the student was in town, and the Captain was unavailable. And in the next instant I was in custody of two very courteous and likeable seamen, but on the way to what was to be my cell for the next four hours.

To loosen my tongue for the interrogation to come, I was plied with "American" beer and Bulgarian cigarettes, and also handed a Russian-American dictionary to make the proceedings easier.

In due time I made known to them that I had to call my editor to explain. But when I was let off the ship one of the seamen went with me to assure that I would return and serve out my "sentence".

I was told how well we two peoples should get along together, how we both love our families, enjoy nature, enjoy good food—the only real difference is our language, and my captors and I got around that very nicely!

They told me that the average family in Russia does not think politics at all; they are like the average American family, with money worries, plumbing problems, etc.

They have no time to think of how bad any country is or what their foreign policies are.

After many hours of "questioning" I was released, but not until I was loaded down with many souvenirs . . . Russian money, picture postcards and assorted magazines.

I was tired, lightheaded, not too steady on my feet as I headed toward my car, a luxury that not too many of my new friends would ever be able to afford.

So, Boss, this was the reason I was a bit late in returning to the office. But if I helped international relations just a little, am I excused?

ANTIPOVERTY LEADERS MEET

By VERN SMITH
Staff Writer

Antipoverty officials from throughout the state gathered here Friday for a two-day meeting of the California Community Action Program Directors Association at the Breakers Hotel.

Percy Moore, Oakland anti-poverty director, and president of the 42-member association, said about 25 CAP directors have registered for this month's meeting. More than 80 members of their staffs also are in attendance.

Mayor Edwin Wade, substituting for Sixth District councilman James Wilson, welcomed the CAP officials to Long Beach at a noon luncheon.

The mayor, speaking off the cuff, praised the local antipoverty agency for "an outstanding effort." He said the city government stands squarely behind the Long Beach Commission on Economic Opportunities.

Wilson, the scheduled speaker, was forced to cancel out at the last minute, Wade said.

Among topics to be discussed by CAP directors, Moore said, are the restrictions placed on CAP staff members by Office of Economic Opportunities guidelines. The OEO is the primary funding source of the antipoverty agencies.

Some of the restrictions as "unrealistic," Moore charged.

"We hope to reach some agreement on the types of political activity in which various CAP people can participate," Moore said.

"We'll have to challenge some of the restrictions on political activity. Others may just be ignored. We'll have to see."

He said the CAP directors also will discuss revision of their own association's by-laws.

Ernie Sprinkles, director of the Economic and Youth Opportunities Agency of Los Angeles, is scheduled to report today on the status of the Neighborhood Youth Corps program in the Southland.

EYOA and four other Los Angeles County poverty agencies, including Long Beach, have been embroiled in a dispute with the U.S. Labor Department over new Youth Corps program guidelines.

Moore said the directors association alternates its meetings each month between Southern and Northern California sites.

This weekend's conference marks the first time the group has met in Long Beach.

Arab Student Meet Begins in L.B. Today

High-ranking spokesmen for the Palestinian Liberation Movement—the Arab group which opposes Middle East peace talks with Israel—are expected at a national Arab student conference in Long Beach today.

The Organization of Arab Students in the U.S. and Canada is sponsoring the 19th annual conference at the off-campus dorms of California State College at Long Beach, 4835 E. Pacific Coast Highway.

More than 300 participants are expected, most of them Arab students from California colleges, organizers say.

Farouk Mawlawi, director of the Pacific Coast office of the Arab League, said the conference would include presentations of Arab strategy in dealing with "the so-called Middle East peace plan."

One speaker will be Fayez Sayegh, permanent representative to the U.S. and United Nations from 14-member Arab League.

Sayegh, in addition to his capacity as a minister, represents the Pan-Arabic movement and is a credentialed U.N. diplomat. Mawlawi said.

Conference sessions will run throughout the week-end, opening this morning at 11 in the Collegiate Inn cafeteria. The banquet will be Sunday at 7 p.m.

OFFICERS TESTIFY

New Seal Beach Palace Charges

By TOM WILEMAN
Staff Writer

A charge that state law was violated at the Marina Palace dance hall was introduced Friday during a special hearing by the Seal Beach City Council.

The new charge was added to others already facing the establishment, whose operator, William F. (Bill) Robertson, had appealed findings of a previous hearing.

At Friday's hearing, two police officers testified they had witnessed intoxication and sex play while at the dance hall which has an avowed policy of not admitting persons over the age of 20.

THE CITY Council, which is sitting as an appeals board in the case, Wednesday granted Robertson, a new hearing. The first hearing, presided over by acting City Manager Dennis Courtemarche, ended with imposition of two week's suspension of the Marina Palace license and a one-year period of probation.

At Friday night's hearing, one officer said he thought he could have made several arrests if he'd been on regular assignment.

The council voted unanimously to add the new charge, which falls under a municipal code section allowing license revocations on grounds that an establishment has violated state law.

VIOLATIONS included Marina Palace patrons dancing while smoking, the prosecution said.

The added charge came when the hearing opened at McGough School. About 125 persons attended.

Prosecuting attorney for the city is Seal Beach Police Chief Lee Case.

Defense attorney Russell W. Bledsoe of Los Angeles called the new charge "unconstitutional" and in violation of state law.

Tape Player Stolen

Robert James Hainley, 2241 Vuella Grande Ave., told Long Beach police Friday thieves forced open the door of his car while it was parked near his home and removed a tape player and tapes valued at $174.

2 DOZEN SPORTS TODAY

Police Olympics Narrowing

Survivors of Friday's first day of the fourth annual Police Olympics will vie today in more than two dozen different sports on land and water.

Some of today's highlights will be the police service dog trials, which begin at 9 a.m. on Wilson High's football field; a full range of track and field events involving more than 170 officers, due at 9 a.m.; at Millikan High, and the pentathlon, which will see policemen attempt to run the 120-yard low hurdles, perform a rope climb, run three miles cross country and perform the police combat exercise.

Today will also see finals in basketball, at 6:15 and 8:15 p.m., in The Cal State Long Beach gym, and in swimming and diving, at 9 a.m. in Belmont Plaza Olympic Pool.

Some events won't be decided until Sunday. The pocket billiards title will be up for grabs at 9:30 a.m., Sunday, in Big

George testified he saw "about four instances" of people who appeared to be intoxicated and several instances of "sex play."

He said he believed that if he'd been on regular assignment he "could have made numerous arrests for things like intoxication, possession of dangerous drugs, possibly sale of dangerous drugs."

Copies of his original police report were given to the council and Bledsoe, but not admitted into evidence. Bledsoe objected, but was over-ruled.

Next to be sworn in was Seal Beach Policeman George Adams, who testified he'd been in the Marina Palace "a dozen times" since April.

HE SAID he'd noted a decrease in the numbers of cars at the dance hall and, in the last two months, "the actions of the people inside have seemed to deteriorate."

Cross-examination of Adams was brief, but Bledsoe cross-examined George vigorously.

It appeared that cross-examination would continue in the next hearing session, Tuesday at 7 p.m.

RECALL NAMES TO BE CHECKED

Seal Beach City Clerk Jody Weir said Friday she will go to Santa Ana next week to begin verification of names on a petition to recall City Councilman Conway J. Fuhrman.

The petitions, bearing approximately 1,000 names, were filed with the clerk Friday.

Mrs. Weir said that she is required to certify only 843 names—25 per cent of the 3,370 voters in Fuhrman's Second District—to declare the petition valid.

"I'm not going to try to verify all 1,000," she said. "When I get to 843, I'll stop."

The clerk estimated that it would take her "two days at most" to complete the verification procedure and would "present it to the council without delay—that's what the law says."

IF MRS. WEIR verifies the signatures and makes her presentation to the council at the next meeting after the Labor Day holiday, the council would call the formal recall election for sometime between mid-November and the first 10 days of December.

New legislation signed into law in the past month by Gov. Reagan requires that recall elections be held no sooner than 74 days nor more than 89 days after the city council or other governing body is advised of the legitimacy of the petitions.

Councilman Fuhrman makes up one third of the Seal Beach City Council majority which has been a focal point of controversy in the beach community. The council majority has been under fire for voting the mass dismissals of all commission members, freezing all city business except payroll and specific bond obligations, and firing City Manager Lee Risner and City Attorney James Carnes.

The latter action, last July 27, triggered the recall action against Fuhrman and divided the town into two camps.

YOUR HOROSCOPE
by JEANE DIXON

FORECAST FOR SUNDAY

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Emotional urges enter into all areas of your life today. Temptation toward extremes shows up readily. Friends rate you not by how much you spend, but what you are.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Social factors complicate the pattern of the day — seek a composed serene attitude. Indulge in your hobbies or creative projects.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): You have a choice of trifling away your time in picking or serious creative efforts. Family life is to be cultivated gently and sincerely.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Mental activities are strongly favored today. While social competitions should be avoided. Catch up with your rest and enjoyment of your home.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Take your time, say and do what you mean. Don't rush about. Emotional pressures are right on the surface where you can see and deal with them.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): You find out how your friends take sides today. Be tactful, since emotional outbursts would get you nowhere. A change of circumstances will occur later.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Use this Sunday for quiet recreation singly or with good friends. Don't money matters altogether, or if you must deal with them, leave friends out.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Your temper may be a little short. Self-restraint plays definite rewards. Friends are likely to pitch in and do things for you if you will let them.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Get out early, make all the rounds, listen to the latest, but don't settle anywhere until you are sure. Home is the place this evening.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You can have a tranquil journey alone, or stay near home and risk bickering over money. Be sure your loved ones understand your deeper feelings.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): The unexcited course today. Spend the day quietly with your own. Don't permit a quarrel to start. Exact directions turn out to be valuable.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Just drifting with the tide of circumstances, doing what seems best at the moment should bring you an interesting and pleasant Sunday.

Lung Chemical Key to Baby-Killing Ailment

DR. ROSEMARY LEAKE

By BEN ZINER
Medical-Science Editor

Better understanding of a chemical found in the tiny air sacs of the lungs may hold the key to conquest of a major killer of babies.

That's the view of Dr. Rosemary Leake, a specialist of illnesses of the newborn, who discussed respiratory distress of the newborn in a lecture at St. Mary's Hospital Friday.

Dr. Leake, director of pediatrics and nurseries at St. Mary's, said the chemical in question is known as pulmonary surfactant. Surfactant is a chemical that changes the tension in the lungs so that all of the air doesn't escape when a person breathes out.

And this is what happens in the respiratory distress syndrome, also known as hyaline membrane disease, she says. "Every time baby takes a breath, it's as if it were his first," Dr. Leake said.

Surfactant is usually absent when hyaline membrane victims are autopsied, she said.

One promising approach is temporary use of an artificial lung, she said, but this technique hasn't been employed long enough to show how effective it may be.

Aim of treatment of respiratory distress syndrome, or hyaline membrane disease, is to tide the tiny patient over. If baby can survive for three or four days, the disorder will eventually disappear.

The ailment is characterized by deposition of a clear clot-like substance in the lungs (the hyaline membrane) which prevents the victim from getting adequate oxygen.

The disorder is common, with four to six of every 100 babies contracting it, Dr. Leake said.

Onset is within the first six hours of life. It most frequently afflicts premature babies, offspring of diabetic mothers and of mothers who have various complications of pregnancy.

Boys are more likely to develop it than girls, and the death rate is also higher among males.

Dr. Leake said the disorder, despite its name, is systemic — meaning that it may affect other parts of the body. For example, bleeding inside the skull is common.

As for treatment, oxygen is helpful — but too much must not be given. As Dr. Leake says: "Oxygen is a toxic drug."

In some instances, too much oxygen can cause a disorder called retrolental fibroplasia, an eye condition that can lead to blindness.

LATE clamping of the umbilical cord may also be helpful, she said, since this gives baby a bigger blood volume.

Correction of a complication known as acidosis can decrease the death rate, she added.

Dr. Leake said studies of hyaline membrane patients who manage to survive show that most are normal later in life. Thus it appears there are no long-term adverse effects among those who weather the breathing crisis in the first days of life outside the womb.

BRIEFLY...

The $64 Question--Should Christians Enjoy Living?

By MARK CLUTTER
(For Vacationing Les Rodney)

Should Christians enjoy life?

This strange question is raised by Thomas W. Klewin in The War Cry, the magazine of the Salvation Army.

"The question was typically Japanese, direct, frank and personal. It came from a polite, gracious, quiet girl who was visiting in our home."

"WHY ARE you a Christian minister?"

"Before I could answer that, Ikuko stated the reason for the question by adding, 'You seem to enjoy life too much to be a good Christian. You laugh and have fun. How can you be a minister who talks to others about your Christian God if you aren't a good Christian?'"

One does not have to be Japanese to ask such a question. All up and down American streets there are "worldly people," some of whom are very lonely for something more, who are offended by the funeral stance of some of the "people of God."

I REMEMBER from my childhood how I came to loathe Sunday. My father was a preacher whom I admired. His strong and stirring sermons seemed to contain the lightning of truth. But the day drag on and on. After the service there would be a huge dinner at some parishioner's home. And then there was nothing to do, nothing to do, nothing to do! There was no place for a child on the Christian Sabbath.

Everything in the Puritan culture was hedged about with taboos. We could play marbles, but not for keeps. Later we must not smoke or drink or gamble or dance.

AND YET, these Puritans were not as harsh as they seemed. At least some of them. A rich love of living often broke through their grim stance. There was wit and laughter. And often there was charity that transcended all their austerities. Years later I met a man who had ruined himself by doing everything the Puritans proclaimed against. He said to me, "I wish I could thank your father. He did more for me than anyone I have ever known. If I had not known him my life would have been worse."

It is so sad that the Puritan stance so often corrupts and cripples the Christian image. If, for instance, instead of being forbidden to play for keeps, I had been warned not to wager more than I could afford to lose, I would have had a happier childhood.

Puritanism is rooted deep in Christianity, but there does seem to be something even deeper. It is summed up in the saying, sometimes heard from the pulpits, "This is the day the Lord hath made. Let us rejoice and be glad in it."

Two Alabama Churches Share a Woman Pastor

By ELMA BELL

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. — The members of East Brewton and Cedar Hill United Methodist Churches have welcomed their new pastor — a woman. The Rev. Miss Jean Spikes has never found being a woman a drawback in her work.

"In my early ministry, there may have been some slight barriers for a lady minister," she says, "but they deteriorated. I have always received a warm welcome."

Miss Spikes has been in the ministry 22 years and her only regret is that she did not answer the call sooner. "My work is not just a profession, it's a very definite call. The call came early in my life, but I would not accept it because of a desire to go into the field of medicine."

WHEN FINALLY the call became too strong to be denied, Miss Spikes entered Vennard College, a Bible College in Oskaloosa, Iowa. Later she went to Troy State College for her liberal arts work and finally completed a prescribed course of study from Emory University.

Her life has been meaningful and rewarding. "I feel as if I have been useful," she says.

"I left the pastorate after 16 years to become an evangelist," she says. "I traveled in seven foreign countries working with the Oriental Missionary Society preaching in their churches throughout the Far East and also lecturing in their seminaries. In the United States, I have preached in some 18 or 20 states holding over 300 revivals in a period of 22 years."

MAY I HAVE A MOMENT OF YOUR TIME?

It has been said that people read into their lives, as a whole, one of three symbolic terms, the treadmill, the saga, or the pilgrimage.

The treadmill is a monotonous squirrel cage, a weary grind that leads nowhere. The saga is the life in which the individual sees himself as the hero, occupying the center of the stage, speaking most of the lines and getting most of the applause.

The pilgrim, on the other hand, transcends the wilderness lands of drabness and even of personal satisfaction to constantly reach out to a better life. The pilgrim realizes that God is trying to make something out of each of us and the real test of living is whether we pass the tests of character with which each day confronts us. Life is a contest between growth and regression or fixation, between pride and humility, between self and God.

Such a pilgrimage requires a day by day living in the present, which is another way of saying in the presence of that One who said, "I am the way, the Christ of God."

Sincerely,
Frank M. Kepner, Pastor

Salvation Army Aims at 'Personal Encounter'

COMMISSIONER ARNOLD BROWN OF LONDON
International Chief of Staff, Salvation Army

He Runs an Army from London Desk

A 57-year-old London born leader heads the world's most peaceful army.

Commissioner Arnold Brown, head of the International Salvation Army, directs 25,000 men in 71 countries from his desk in an office that looks out on St. Paul's Cathedral.

Writer, preacher, composer, conductor, administrator and public relations expert, Brown came to his new post only 10 months ago.

The author of "What Hath God Wrought?" the official history of the Salvation Army in Canada, he was named head of the public relations department at International Headquarters in London in 1964.

Brown moved to Canada in 1920, and graduated from the Salvation Army's officer training college in Toronto. He then spent 10 years editing "The War Cry," the group's Canadian newspaper. He also helped establish summer music camps in Canada and directed the first such camp in Newfoundland in 1942.

During his years as public relations director in London, Brown helped prepare international centenary celebrations, launched a drive to update and expand the Army's social services in Britain, and created citizen advisory boards to guide the group in matters of community service.

Brown married a fellow Salvation Army officer from Montreal in 1939 and the couple have two daughters, both of whom are also in the Army.

"Contact '70 — Outreach in Evangelism" is the title of a week-long Salvation Army drive which will encompass Long Beach and the rest of the Southland starting this weekend.

The seven-day program of outreach and personal encounter will involve Salvation Army officers and teams of laymen who will circulate throughout the city and the rest of South ern California starting Monday, said Lt. Col. Orval A. Taylor, divisional commander.

These teams will concentrate on housing projects, mobile home camps, park rallies, beach evangelism and person-to-person evangelism, said Col. Taylor.

A focal point of the local outreach is a special coffee house called "The Answer" at 237 E. First St.

which opened Friday night. Hours are 6 p.m. until midnight today and throughout the coming week. The coffee house will be closed this Sunday but open the following Sunday.

Special guest for the week's events in Long Beach will be Commissioner Arnold Brown, International Chief of Staff from London. He will speak at a Salvationist Fellowship Dinner at 7 p.m. Thursday at the Lafayette. His wife, world president of the Salvation Army's Nurses' Fellowship, will be a guest at the dinner along with Lt. Commissioner William J. Perkins, Western Territorial Commander.

Brown's next talk will be at Youth Night at 7:30 p.m. Friday in the Municipal Auditorium. He will also address an evangelistic meeting at the same hour and place Saturday.

A highlight of all meetings will be performances by Salvation Army brass bands and soloists. Seven of these bands, assembled from throughout Southern California, will march in a colorful "Parade of Willness" down Long Beach Boulevard to the Municipal Auditorium starting at 6 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 6.

God Must Be Sought, Says Pope

CASTEL GANDOLFO, Italy — Pope Paul VI declared this week that "God is not dead; he is missing, missing for so many men of our time."

The pontiff, in an address to his weekly general audience at his summer residence here, said modern man seemed to be seeking everything in life, except communication with God.

The Pope in the past has made clear that one of his major preoccupations is the decline of religious feeling in the world.

"Everything is pursued, but not God," the Pope stated. "God is dead," is said, "Let's not worry about it any more," but God must be sought."

He concluded by stating that the rediscovery of God would help man "overcome that one-dimensional conception of life that materialism and positivism today give him."

L.B. Youth to Study in Israel

Mark Statman of 2070 Beverly Plaza is among 16 students who have been admitted in the rabbinic program at the California School of the Hebrew Union College and will be in Israel next week to spend their first year of study at the college's biblical and archaeological school in Jerusalem.

REV. MAGNUSON

New Pastor Named at St. Luke's

Rev. Roger J. Magnuson of Sacramento will assume the pastorate at St. Luke's Lutheran Church, 5633 Wardlow Road, on Tuesday.

The new pastor's first worship service and sermon before the 500-member Long Beach congregation will be next Sunday, coinciding with the first public use of St. Luke's new Kramer pipe organ.

Rev. Magnuson's wife, Jean, and four children will join him here Sept. 10. Official installation of the new pastor is scheduled Sept. 20, with Rev. David Robinson, vice pastor, officiating.

Rev. Magnuson, 41, a native of Minnesota, came to California following his ordination in 1956. He is a graduate of Gustavus Adolphus Seminary in Rock Island, Ill. He has served All Saints Lutheran Church in Sacramento since 1962.

If you discover your son or daughter is using drugs, don't turn the youngster over to police or go into a rage and order him out of the house.

"Keep your cool and don't panic."

These tips were offered at a conference on the drug crisis and the church at Glorieta Baptist Assembly grounds near Santa Fe, N.M., last week, sponsored by the Southern Baptist Christian Life Commission.

Instead of calling the police, a parent who learns his child is using drugs should call a physician and seek his advice and help, said the Rev. Dr. Henlee H. Barnett, a professor of Christian ethics.

USUALLY, he said, a physician will be sympathetic and know what further steps to take for rehabilitation.

He said turning a youngster over to police could be one of the most damaging things a parent can do, and might turn the youth permanently against his parents and result in his expulsion from school and imprisonment.

Prison could mean a "postgraduate course in real crime," the professor added.

Dr. Barnett, of Louisville's Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, said one of the first things a parent should do is to talk openly with their youngster about his problem — and to listen, as well as give advice. "The victim of drugs needs to be heard rather than harrassed and harassed," he said.

"Scare tactics" in trying to frighten children off drugs won't work, he added, saying it would only cause them to "turn a deaf ear" because they usually know more about drug effects than the parents.

SUCH TACTICS, he said, simply cause "further alienation."

If the youngster has become a pusher — a drug peddler — and won't voluntarily seek help, the parents may have to notify authorities, he said, adding:

"If he is a junky and will not seek help, about the only thing parents can do is to kick him out." Dr. Barnett said that for parents to continue to support a pusher would merely feed his habit, which would get bigger.

It would "keep him an infant, a baby, and this is what he wants. He must give up drugs, or leave." But Dr. Barnett said before taking such drastic action, every effort should be made to get the youngster into a hospital or rehabilitation program.

Dr. Barnett contended that much of the drug culture in America has been popularized by rock musicians, and that young people tend to take such musicians as models of behavior.

ROCK SONGS are filled with references to drugs, he said, such as the Beatles' song, "I Get High with a Little Help from My Friends" and "Crystal Ship," recorded by the Doors, which refers to drugs supplied in white crystals such as methedrine.

Whether the songs encourage drug usage is debatable, Dr. Barnett observed, but added that "young people do tend to identify with such performers and the message of the experience of psychoactive drugs comes through loud and clear."

Motivations for drug usage among the young are many, he said, including:

a desire for thrills, rebellion against parents or just plain curiosity.

AMONG sociological forces leading to drug use, he cited such factors as inadequate family relations, peer group pressures, mass media, rock music and oppressive social conditions.

Youngsters "often feel the system cannot be changed to conform to their ideals, so some seek to escape through drugs," he said.

He said the church, in order to deal effectively with the drug problem, must develop special ministries within the drug culture and a "fellowship of sharing" to help the addict break the chemical walls separating him from others. He added:

"Wherever men stand in need of help and healing, this is where the church is to be."

FROM THE PULPIT

"God is not the author of confusion," how often we hear people state their troubling thoughts concerning religion. You may be among those who in all sincerity do not know what you believe. In some ways, this is very easily understood since many churches and church leaders are so vague about what you should believe. Truth is positive, and must be taught with authority. "If a trumpet give an uncertain sound, how shall they prepare for battle," what you need most is exposure to God's Word from a man who is not ashamed to proclaim it as infallible truth.

Jesus said, "You shall know the truth, and the truth shall set you free." Free from confusion, doubt and unbelief. What is truth you ask, "My Word is truth." Do you attend a church where God's Word is taught as truth?"

Cynicism Isn't Sophistication; It Always Fails

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

I gave a talk about enthusiasm and a short time later met a young, far-out "intellectual." In our conversation, he let me in on his opinion that enthusiasm is not an "in" thing these days. "Enthusiasm," he said, "is tied in with an America that has gone by. The 'now' nation goes for cynicism, pessimism and sophistication."

If he had looked up the word "sophistication," he would have found that it means the possession of knowledge of the world. And the fact is that cynicism is not sophistication, for historically it has always turned out a flop. But enthusiasm, on the contrary, is one of the greatest creative qualities possible in human nature, for it carries a person through all manner of difficulties. Enthusiasm usually sweeps everything before it.

The very derivation of the word indicates its importance. The English word "enthusiasm" is derived from two Greek words, "en" and "theos," the latter being the word for God. Enthusiasm, therefore, literally means "full of God." The Creator packed man full of enthusiasm which surely indicates that, to live effectively, a person needs to maintain that dynamic quality throughout his life.

A few days after my talk with my cynical young friend, I had occasion to take a walk with somebody who really knows what life is all about — my granddaughter, Rebecca, 2 years old. Is she full of enthusiasm, and then some! She loves everything, and I mean everything! To her, the world is absolutely right. It's good, filled with beauty, romance and mystery and excitement. She overflows with the sheer delight of life.

ON OUR WALK we encountered a huge dog who growled at us. But she wasn't afraid of him at all. Before I could stop her, she walked right up and patted him on the nose. He succumbed to her charm. I picked her up to smell a lilac bush, dripping with dew. The water sprinkled all over her face, and she laughed with the joy of it. That's the way we were meant to be.

The great Huxley once said that the secret of genius is to carry the spirit of the child into the old age. We were all born enthusiastic, but all too many of us have let that enthusiasm drain out in the course of living. Henry Thoreau declared that "none are so old as those who have outlived enthusiasm."

How, then, do you recover that power of enthusiasm? One way is to practice thinking enthusiastically about everybody and everything, which of course isn't easy. We are constantly subjected to the bad, not to the good, being reminded by the media, whose function it is to tell it like it is, of just how bad the situation in the world is. But you've got to rise above it and think good to ever make it good. I know a man who picks up his morning paper every day and growls to himself, "Well, let's see what's gone wrong now." What a way to start the day!

INSTEAD, start every morning the way Henry Thoreau did, by enumerating all the good things that can happen in the day ahead. Don't tell yourself that the country is going to the dogs and things are all bad, for they are not; and don't say that we're on the way out, that this country is on the way down, for none of that is true, either. Expect great things of your country, and great things will come to you from your country. That doesn't mean ever to think unrealistically, but when you add to realism the power of enthusiasm, you'll bring the best into existence.

So, love life; really love it. Get enthusiastic about it. Love everybody that you can; and love your job.

Those 'Self-Righteous' Liberals Criticized

United Press International

Dr. Cynthia Wedel, president of the National Council of Churches, suggested this week that "self-righteous" liberals may be even more to blame than foot-dragging conservatives for the split over social action that is sapping the strength of America's churches.

This is news of the man-bites-dog type, because Dr. Wedel is a leading liberal and the National Council of Churches has been a mainstay of the social action movement.

Writing in the Christian Century magazine — itself a noted voice of liberalism — Dr. Wedel said leaders who favor active involvement of the church in social and political affairs have undermined their own cause by neglecting "the hard, time-consuming task of communication" necessary to acquaint rank and file church members with the Christian motivations for such involvement.

CONSERVATIVE church members, she said, are "neither bad nor stupid people; they are decent, intelligent, God-fearing men and women." But they have grown up a concept of Christianity as individual piety — a concept taught them by the church in times past — and they simply do not comprehend the view, now widely held by church leaders, that Christian obedience in our time must be primarily concerned with fighting for peace and social justice.

Instead of trying to bring them along, she said, liberal church leaders too often have treated them with "cavalier disdain."

When conservative laymen raise questions about the activities and pronouncements of national church bodies dominated by liberal clergymen, she said, they too often get "arrogant and self-righteous" answers.

"No sensible politician in government would antagonize his constituency as we do," she said.

IT IS SMALL wonder, she said, that this "contemptuous" treatment has left many church members "bewildered and angry."

Some liberals, she noted, "take pride in being rejected by the multitude who choose not to follow us." But this attitude puts self-satisfaction above the accomplishment of genuine social progress.

"The social witness of the church is far less effective than it should and could be today because it is constantly being opposed by the vast majority of church members," she said. Politicians do not take seriously the pronouncements of church leaders who have been repudiated by their own constituency.

"I do not or a moment think that the churches of this country should stop being the conscience of the nation," Dr. Wedel concluded. "But I am increasingly convinced that we cannot carry out this task if we spend so much of our energy in intra-family feuds."

"IN ORDER TO promote social action, church leadership must undertake the hard, time-consuming task of communication — must find a way to reach out to, communicate with, educate the great body of church people even while continuing to press forward on the social justice front."

"Leaders of denominations and of the national council of churches need to get out into the field, to meet and listen to the people. Only then will we learn how to communicate to them the biblical and theological bases of church involvement with the world today."

Amen, sister.

Even With Own Kids Adoption's Sensible

By LOUIS CASSELS
UPI Religion Writer

Adoption has long been regarded as a means whereby infertile couples can satisfy their yearning for children.

It still fulfills that role admirably. But there is a growing realization among thoughtful people that adoption also makes sense for couples who already have one or more children of their own.

By adopting a baby instead of having one, a husband and wife can expand their family without any guilt feelings about adding to population pressure.

This is an important consideration to many people who believe that a sharply reduced birth rate is essential to any long range plan for solving urban problems and curbing the alarming deterioration of the natural environment.

SOME ARGUE that every couple has a moral duty to help achieve a zero growth rate in population by limiting themselves to a maximum of two offspring.

But a couple who have two children can adopt another, or several more, without the slightest effect on the birth rate. They're not bringing new lives into a crowded world; they're simply providing homes for children already born.

Thus, they relieve two urgent social problems at once. They help to curb population growth, and they also provide the nurture of a loving family environment for children who might otherwise wind up in the cold and crippling atmosphere of an institution.

Some years ago, the demand for adoptive children exceeded the supply, and most adoption agencies had long waiting lists of would-be parents. But that is no longer the case. A sharp rise in births out of wedlock and a growing number of broken homes have combined to produce a sad situation in which many adoption agencies are unable to find enough homes for all the children who need to be placed.

THERE IS a particularly acute shortage of adoptive parents for black and racially mixed children. Of 195,000 black children born out of wedlock last year, the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare estimates, about 30,000 have no hope of finding a permanent home.

Some young couples — a remarkable number, considering the psychological and cultural obstacles involved — are responding to this human tragedy by interracial adoptions.

GARDENING

By JOE LITTLEFIELD

Poodled plants are an offshoot of lopiary work on plants. Topiary is the clipping and training of shrubs into ornamental figures. These can be vegetative birds, children, dwarfs, foxes, geometrical or grotesque figures. Such work is rarely done in the United States.

But poodled plants have gained some popularity. Poodled plants have selected branches emanating horizontally from the trunks. The ends of these branches have bushy growth, trimmed or clipped into globular or oval shapes. Two plants which are trimmed in this way are Podocarpus macrophylla, and Eugenia myrtifolia or hookeriana.

Podocarpus macrophylla, "Yew Podocarpus," may be trained in an upright growth for a columnar effect by slight pruning. Lawns (whether grass or dichondra) under trees tend to grow thinner and weaker because of the lack of sunlight and freer circulation of air. They slowly die out.

The lowest growing ground cover is Baby Tears "Helzhe soleirol."

The taller ground cover is Ophiopogon japonicum "mondo grass." It is an evergreen sod and forms stemless grass-like foliage to about eight inches high. It is impervious to the invasion of tree roots.

Gardener must provide a barrier to keep the ground-cover planting within bounds. Such ground cover usually is allowed to grow out to the dripline of the tree branches. A metal lawn guard circling the dripline of the tree should be sunk into the soil with the top portion an inch or more above ground.

The metal guard prevents the ground cover from growing out into the sunny portion of the lawn. The new growth should be trimmed back to the guard.

One of our column readers wanted to know what ground covers will grow in Sun City, near Hemet. It is very warm in the summer and the nights are cold in the winter.

We suggested two ground covers that stand heat and considerable cold weather.

They are Verbena pulchella "sand verbenas," and prostrate Rosemary. Sand verbenas grows to about eight inches high and spreads out well. Prostrate Rosemary can be kept down to about 18 inch height provided you cut back the corkscrew upright branches to keep the ground cover down to about that height.

The soil is poor and hard. The best way to prepare it is to spread a two-inch layer of fine-ground bark over a thoroughly premoistened area of soil that has been allowed to dry for a day or two. Scatter seven pounds of agricultural gypsum or soil sulphur per each 100 square feet area of ground plus 2 sacks of manure to same given area. Rototill it to an eight inch depth if possible, north and south direction, then east and west direction, then diagonally. This is done to thoroughly mix the materials throughout that soil area. Then apply a liquid soil conditioner that has a liquid sulphur base, a liquid horticultural wetting agent and fertilizer all combined in the container. Apply one quart of it over each 200 square feet through a hose fertilizer gun, then water well. Few days later, soak thoroughly. A week later, rake over the soil to level, then set out the ground covers. (This is the proper way to prepare the soil before planting.) A quicker soil preparation method is to dig the holes for the plants and mix two parts of fine-ground bark or planter-mix mulch with the soil dug out to make the holes. After the second water filling in the holes has disappeared into the soil set out the plants.

Indoor Plants Give Roaches a Place to Live

By EARL ARONSON
AP Newsfeatures

Indoor plants are among the favorite things of cockroaches, which delight in tender leaves and juicy roots.

The plants in winter obligingly generate humidity that is comforting to the roaches. Moisture, in fact, is a fundamental requirement and it has been reported that these insects can survive for two full months on water alone.

APPARENTLY these indiscriminate feeders aren't apt to bypass any type of plant in a pinch. They aren't very fussy anyway, and will nibble on a wide variety of items ranging from book-bindings to carpets and leather. They are so adaptable they have been found prospering far below the earth's surface in gold mines of South Africa. They dislike light and noise but can live with both.

Roaches can make a shambles of an indoor garden or potted plant by picking leaves and killing roots as they burrow into soil.

A pressurized spray may be applied directly to the roaches' habitat and to their travel routes. An effective spray Warpath, a nontoxic killer by the d-Con Co., remains active for seven months. It contains pyrethrins, the knockdown agent, and silica gel, a sand-like substance that acts as an abrasive and removes the protective wax on the insect. Once the shield is lost, the roach is exposed to a quick and painless death by evaporation and dehydration.

PYRETHRINS comes from a variety of African

GARDEN CLINIC

Address all questions to Garden Editor, Independent, Press-Telegram, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach, Calif. 90801. No stamps or self-addressed envelopes, please. Answers are given only in this column.

Q. -- With all the talk about ecology lately, is there a way we gardeners can control the unwanted weeds and pests in our gardens without using herbicides or pesticides?

A. -- Without being facetious, pulling up the weeds from a flower bed or a lawn by hand and hoeing the weeds in open soil area when small, or cultivating the soil or turning it over, would be about the only answer to the weed problem.

There have been insecticides in the past, one a cottonone contact spray from a plant of the genus Deris, designed to solve the pest problem. Another from the Pyrethrum blossoms was developed as a general contact spray. Check with your nurseryman about these two to see if either one is available.

Clubs Can Help Solve Problems

Newcomers in the Long Beach area might solve many of their gardening problems by visiting one of the garden clubs and asking advice.

According to Mrs. Gretchen Chadwich, president, most members of the Long Beach Garden Club have special knowledge of what will and what will not grow in various sections of the city.

The club has a strong, well-balanced program coming up, and it encourages newcomers to visit meetings.

At most meetings of this and some other clubs there is a table where slips, cuttings, seeds and potted plants are shared with members and guests.

As a service to newcomers and oldtimers, meeting times and places for garden clubs in the Long Beach area are given each week in the Club Notes column of the Independent, Press-Telegram.

PLANTS IN POTS

If you're new to the hobby of growing plants in containers, it's useful to know that you can begin with a small cacti, fern or succulent plant in a three or four-inch clay pot, or a huge philodendron in a 14-inch clay pot, and be confident that the addition of living greenery will make your home more attractive and pleasant.

Visitors are welcome.

Q. -- Can you tell me what is the matter with my Hachiya persimmon tree? It is about seven years old, in the center of the back lawn. Annually scores of fruit set and drop when about as large as a cherry. I've tried watering it deeply, and have experimented with less water. Now this year, besides the fruit falling off, the leaves have black rims such as those enclosed. One nurseryman recommended iron. I bought a gallon of liquid iron and used as directed but no improvement. Mrs. L.B.

A. -- Fruit trees grow much better in open soil area than in a lawn. Try the following suggestion: Don't let the sprinkler system water around the tree. This means you will control the water and water the tree as needed. Next read Mrs. D.C.C.'s inquiry about peach and plum trees. Follow through on your persimmon as I recommended to her. The black rim edges of the persimmon leaves indicates alkali or a salts alkali buildup in the soil. Your nurseryman was right suggesting liquid iron. But -- it can't help the soil if tree soil is constantly moist. Correct the watering as I suggested, then use the liquid iron, or a soil conditioner that acidifies the soil improves such soil condition.

QUESTION ... Each year our poinsettia bush grows to a height of 30 feet. Is there any way it can be kept at eight feet height? Last year the flowers were healthy but the leaves all dropped off. I would appreciate some information on the care of them. P.S. Each year they are cut down. Mrs. Beal-ice Collu.

ANSWER -- Had you asked mid-March, I would have suggested you cut them back to within two to three nodes (buds) of where you had cut back the previous year. Now, hurry up and cut them back to within six feet of the ground. Cut above a leaf or a leafless bud. At least 99 per cent of the time the plants are leafless long before the blossoms develop fully. The reason is spider mites. They're on the underside of the leafage, suck sap juices and dry up the foliage. Spray with an insecticide that lists spider mites among many others named on the spray bottle label. Also it's a good idea to sharp hose spray the underside of the leaves late afternoon, because spider mites hate to go to bed with wet feet.

Care in Chemical Use Will Protect Environs

Gardeners, like all others, have probably never been so aware of their total environment. We are taking a second look at the world around us this summer and giving a lot more thought to the effect of our actions.

In the garden, many flower lovers will once again be using a wide variety of chemicals to control insects, weeds and plant diseases as well as to insure that all plants get their necessary nutrients.

THERE'S GOOD reason for using garden chemicals, but like everything else, one can easily overdo a good thing. "Moderation" is perhaps the key to the use of pesticides.

But one word alone doesn't really solve the problem. That's why the garden experts at Geigy Chemical Corp. have recommended the following pointers for spraying chemicals:

—Read the package label before doing anything else. Note the mixing instructions and any precautionary information.

—Never mix new spray chemicals with any "leftovers" in the sprayer. Use a clean sprayer.

—Measure all chemicals carefully. If directions recommend three tablespoons of some chemical, don't assume seven or eight will give better control. It won't.

—For accuracy, reserve a special measuring cup or spoon -- keep it out of children's reach and strictly for insecticides. Some products provide a special measuring cap for this purpose.

—Never spray on a windy day. Any spray that blows away is wasted and could injure plants for which it is not intended. Early morning when air is calm is a good time to spray.

—Spray until there is a light drip from the leaves. This indicates good coverage.

—Be sure to spray under sides of leaves as well as the tops.

—Immediately after use, clean your sprayer thoroughly with laundry detergent and water.

—Plants should be sprayed at regular intervals of about 10 to 14 days during the growing season. In wet, rainy weather spray weekly.

Care in the use of garden chemicals has always been important. The concern over our environment has made us more aware of it this year. When used properly, chemicals can be of great assistance to the weekend gardener. And when using safe, nonpersistent products, he need not fear any adverse effects upon the environment.

MODERATION is key to use of garden pesticides. Measure chemicals carefully, mix thoroughly and apply fine mist to both sides of leaves until they just begin to drip. Never spray on windy day or mix new chemicals with leftovers.

New Fire Captain

Lionel Salhus of Long Beach has been promoted to captain with the Los Angeles County Fire Department. It was announced Friday. He has been assigned to Station 42 in Rosemead.

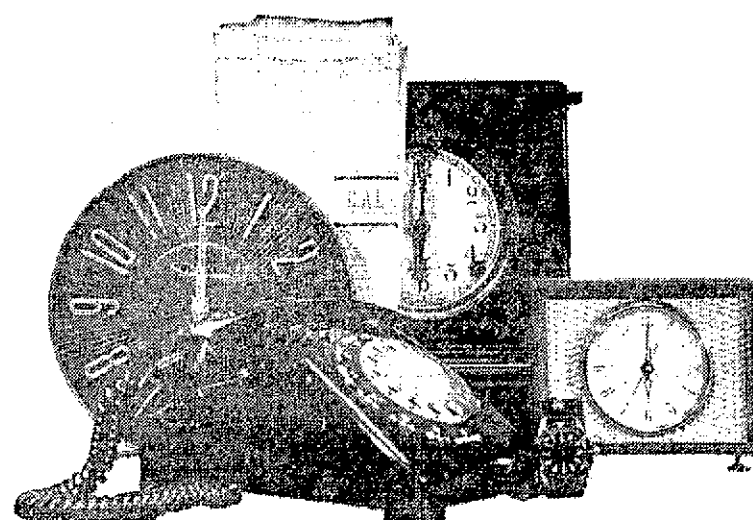

JOBS TO DO NOW

One reason Junipers die back is when they are planted too deep, (buried) in the ground. A girdler around the base of the plant trunk can kill it. Top of the plant root ball should be level with the surrounding ground, soil should be firm. Spider mites also can cause foliage to look bad.

Wise gardeners hose with a sharp stream of water a couple of times a month. Foliage of Italian cypress, Arborvitae, Juniper low or high spreading, trimmed hedges, podocarpus, and many other plants. This is done to dislodge dead foliage and more important to dislodge and discourage various kinds of pests that might be nesting in that shrubbery.

Hypericum shrubs, "gold flowers," are hardy. They flower from spring into the fall season. The light apple-green foliage is resplendent and attractive.

Denny Sops Writers, Suspended

DENNY MCCLAIN
Suspended indefinitely

DETROIT (UPI) — Pitcher Denny McLain of the Detroit Tigers was suspended "without salary for an indefinite period not to exceed 30 days" Friday night by the club for dousing two Detroit sportswriters with buckets of water.

Detroit general manager Jim Campbell made the announcement following the game with the Oakland A's, which the Tigers lost, 6-2.

McLain threw a bucket of ice water on baseball writer Jim Hawkins of the Detroit Free Press and then, following a cordial conversation, repeated the act to Watson Spoelstra, who covers the Tigers for the Detroit News.

"Denny McLain has been suspended without salary for an indefinite period not to exceed 30 days for conduct unbecoming a professional baseball player," was Campbell's statement.

McLain, who sat out the first three months of the season for associating with gamblers, had only a 3-5 record this season. Following his most recent loss

Wednesday night to the Angels, McLain was unusually testy with writers.

"I'm going to get all you guys," McLain said before Friday's game with a big grin on his face to Hawkins and UPI staffer Rich Shook, who were sitting on the bench.

"I had talked to McLain and was just starting to leave when Joe Niekro (whose locker is next to McLain's) told me to sit down," Hawkins said. "Then he got me."

Spoelstra said he had finished a friendly conversation with McLain, they had shook hands, and Denny had told him, "We've always been friends, and we're still friends."

Spoelstra then turned to walk away and McLain dumped a bucket of ice water over his head.

LEONARD'S CAR TOO HOT TO HANDLE

Joe Leonard had hottest car on track Thursday, turning lap of 177.2 mph, and also Friday when fire broke out in his turbocharged Ford. Safety harness caught fire and

LEONARD, A. UNSER 500 POLE FAVORITES

Gotta Envy Parnelli's Racing Stable

By RICH ROBERTS
Staff Writer

ONTARIO — They're the envy of Ontario, those Johnny Lightning guys, with their fast cars and the only air-conditioned garage on the lot.

There doesn't appear to be much their rivals can do to prevent Parnelli Jones' terribly swift two-some of Joe Leonard and Indianapolis champion Al Unser from winning the first two starting spots when qualifying starts this morning for the Sept. 6 California 500.

About 100,000 spectators are expected; admission is $2.

Leonard and Unser dominated practice since they arrived, Leonard winding up to 177.2 mph Thursday and Unser hitting 176 Friday.

The team's confidence has been shaken only slightly this week, when Unser showed up with the flu Monday — he's fine now — and Friday when Leonard caught fire on the back stretch.

But it was quickly extinguished and, shrugging off light burns on his hands and one leg, Joe was back out running 45 minutes later.

"You have to hand it to Parnelli's team," one resigned rival sighed. "The cars were ready to race when they were rolled off the truck. They are the cars to beat for the pole."

If Leonard doesn't win

it, Unser probably will, just as he did three months ago before running away with the Indy 500 — the only pole-sitter to win since Parnelli himself in 1963.

But just to make it interesting, they'll be pressing the clock and the elements in today's 10 to 6 trials. When Jones' partner Vel Miletich drew lots for qualifying order Friday night, he bagged the 37th spot for Leonard and 38th for Unser — far enough down the line to cause concern.

If there are no dropouts and wind interrupts the running — as it did Tuesday and Wednesday — Leonard and Unser might not get a shot at the pole at all.

If they don't win it today, it doesn't matter how fast they go Sunday.

On the other hand, hard luck Lloyd Ruby finally got a break. He drew the first shot but will have to choose between his Ford and Offy. He has been practicing at 173 mph in both.

With only 46 draws and some of those lacking drivers, there appears to be plenty of room in the field for all the serious contenders — even Al Loquasto in the Indy On A Shoestring Special and Jigger Sirois in the Sugar Pie Prune Special.

Sirois could have had the pole at Indy last year as the only qualifier before opening day trials were rained out, but his crew waved him off after three laps because they thought he was going too slow.

Leonard, who holds the Indianapolis qualifying marks of 171.953 for one lap and 171.559 for the full four laps, set in a turbine last year, would dearly love to have this one, too.

As the understudy of the Johnny Lightning team, the former four-time national motorcycle champion from San Jose has taken second billing to Unser in the USAC campaign, winning once to Al's five times.

"But Joe has a helluva

Reuss Rolls as Dodgers Fail to Support Sutton

By GORDON VERRELL
Staff Writer

His name is Jerry Reuss and he pronounces it "royce," as in Rolls Royce, and his curve ball is just as smooth as one.

Friday night Jerry Reuss became the fourth pitcher to toss a two-hitter at the Dodgers this year, winning 1-0 on an eighth-inning home run blast by Joe Torre to further frustrate losing pitcher Don Sutton.

It's now 18 innings Sutton has worked in his last two starts, giving up only one run each time; yet all he's got to show for it is an 0-1 record.

He hurled nine innings in the 16-inning game with Pittsburgh and then worked another nine Friday night, giving up just the homer to Torre.

"Yeah, it's tough," Sutton said afterward. "But don't forget, I'd gone three games before that and when I finally came out all you call it was a mercy killing."

"I was bad — awfully bad — but even though I didn't get a win in either of these last two starts at least there's consolation in finally learning what I was doing wrong."

The worst thing Sutton did was draw Reuss, a 6-5, 21-year-old towhead who's a homegrown St. Louis product.

The Dodgers nailed Reuss for 11 hits and a 7-2 victory two weeks ago in St. Louis. But Friday night they managed only three baserunners — Bill Sudak is who singled twice and Manny Mota who walked in the ninth.

"He gets better every time he pitches," praised Redbird manager Red Schoendienst. "His curve is a good one and the big thing is he's getting it over."

Reuss, who signed for $30,000, hurled a two-hitter earlier this month against Montreal but he labels Friday's performance his best yet in his brief stay in the big leagues.

"This one was easily my best game," he said, "because my control was so much better. Against Montreal I walked about four guys."

"I was worried on that ball Kosco hit in the eighth. I thought it was gone at first but then Lou Brock stayed with it and got it right at the wall."

Andy Kosco's drive to lead off the seventh was the longest shot off Reuss who's now 5-5 in his first

CHARGERS BANK ON DEFENSE TO EVEN SERIES

Rams 8-Point Favorites to Whip Freeway Foe

By AL LARSON
Staff Writer

SAN DIEGO — Interstate 5 is a highway — lots of highway. To old AFL and NFL fans in Southern California it's also a rivalry — and lots of that too.

The fourth in the series of pro football pre-season summer spectaculars between the Rams and Chargers will unfold tonight at 8 in San Diego Stadium. There is no live television.

There were reports that President Nixon would be among the 50,000 in the stands.

San Diego banks on an improved defense as it tries to even the California series at two victories each. The Rams won 50-7 in 1967 and 24-14 last year. The Charger triumph came in 1968 by a 35-13 count.

Just for the record, the Rams are 8-point favorites. However, oddsmakers should be a little nervous. San Diego is a very emotional team that is capable of playing like the best or the worst in the League.

Take Monday night, for instance. The Chargers registered their second come-from-behind victory over National Football Conference opponents when they defeated the Chicago Bears, 14-9. The week before they pulled out a last-period 30-27 triumph over the New York Giants. The Rams, meanwhile, beat Oakland 34-23.

Running back Tommy Mason makes his first 1970 appearance for the Rams, one of three remaining teams with a perfect record.

Coach George Allen said Friday he would start Mason and Les Josephson. His policy has been to let Mason, the 10-year veteran from Tulane, sit out the opening contests while working himself into shape. "He's looked zippy in practice this week," Allen said.

The Rams will risk their three-game streak against Charlie Waller's club with un-retired Lance Alworth back in a Charger uniform.

However, Alworth, No. 9 on the all-time list of NFL

Angels Split, Happy With 3-Game Deficit

By DON MERRY
Staff Writer

CLEVELAND — It was a split decision in Cleveland for the Angels Friday night.

Ordinarily, this would not prompt much excitement but in New York the verdict was unanimous and the Minnesota Twins, beginning to sprout cauliflower ears, dropped a pair to the Yankees.

Therefore, the Angels peeled another full length away from Minnesota's lead and the separation is now three games, allowing the Angels to shrug off Friday's stalemate with Cleveland.

With baseball's best bullpen doing its thing again in the opener, permitting the Angels to take a tense

3-2 win, the club was in a position to slice the deficit to two games but Rich Hand did not play into their plans.

Hand pitched a one-hitter and defeated the Angels for the fourth successive time, 5-1.

"We're fortunate they (Minnesota) lost two," manager Lefty Phillips understated. "We're also in a hell of a position."

Three weeks ago, Phillips scrutinized the standings in the American League West which showed his team nine games behind and announced solemnly: "It's going to take a landslide of Minnesota losses to give us a chance."

Lefty has his landslide.

The Twins have lost 15 of their last 21 while the Angels have won 11 of 19. This makes Lefty smile, for presumably the Twins have also lost some of their composure.

In the second game, the Angels lost their four-game losing streak to a rookie pitcher who handles them with unmitigated ease. Rich Hand is 2-9 against the rest of the league with a 4.00 ERA but against the Angels he is 4-0 and 1.83.

"If his name is Hand, I hope he gets the fickle finger of fate award," mused Jim Fregosi, whose eighth-inning single decided the opener, giving him 16 game-winners for the year.

"He's no rookie, he's Cy Young," declared catcher Joe Azcue.

"You know what's coming — you just can't hit it," a puzzled Sandy Alomar added. "His curve isn't much so all he throws are fastballs and sliders but they jump all over the place."

Roger Repoz' first-inning homer, his 18th of the season, fourth of the road trip and third in four games, was the extent of the Angel attack.

"Roger hit a curve and got him so mad he didn't throw any more," Jay Johnstone analyzed.

The first game was a war of nerves. Alex Johnson singled in a run in the first inning but the Indians matched it. Alomar singled home another run in the second but struggling Rudy May allowed three consecutive singles for another deadlock in the fourth.

There were also runners at first and second and nobody out when Phillips gave the game ball to Tom Bradley.

Vada Pinson batted for Buddy Bradford and smashed an apparent single to right, but Jim Spencer deftly turned it into an out as the runners advanced.

"That turned the whole game around," said Bradley. "If that ball gets by him two runs score."

Bradley walked Jack Heidemann intentionally before striking out Indian starter Dean Chance and inducing Eddie Leon to ground out to close out the inning.

The tie persisted until the eighth when the Angels assaulted reliever Dennis Higgins for consecutive singles by Alomar. Repoz and Fregosi for the precious run.

Phillips, calling his bullpen "the best I've ever seen," used three members to stave off the Tribe in the ninth.

Winner Ken Tatum got one man out but walked

'Shoe' Pilots 2 Hopefuls in Del Mar Derby

DEL MAR — Co-champions of the three-year-old ranks will be crowned at Del Mar today when the 26th running of the Del Mar Derby is presented in divisions at a mile and one-eighth on the infield turf course.

Bill Shoemaker, closing in on John Longden's all-time victory mark, will have contending mounts in both divisions. "The Shoe" will be aboard Mickey McGuire, the probable choice in the first division (seventh race), and in the second division (eighth race) he will pilot Magic Hope II, recent arrival from France where he was a top stakes performer.

Eight sophomores were entered in the first division which will carry a gross purse of $22,500 if all start. In addition to Mickey McGuire, the entrants include Sir Fault, Colorado Kid, Thoroly Blue, War Heim, D'Artagnan, Freeway Kid and Grey Shoe.

Nine are scheduled to contest the second division which will have a gross purse of $22,750 if there are no scratches. Opponents for Magic Hope II include Whittingham, Terra Berry, The Field, Moment To Moment, Woodie Can, Sir Wiggle, Mayhede and Sugar Loaf.

Shoemaker, who had won with eight of 20 previous mounts this week, cooled off in his quest of Longden's record Friday, failing to connect in five opportunities before 9:41 a.m.

Thus, Shoemaker remains nine short of the mark, with a career victory total of 6,023. He has four mounts today.

Shoemaker began his afternoon by finishing sixth aboard Richard Hughes in the fifth race. He then was fourth on Fundy Bay in the sixth, fifth on Loyal Ruler in the seventh, seventh on Lady Wiggle in the eighth and seventh aboard Title Game in the ninth.

Vallombrosa won the afternoon's feature, the $6,500 Judges, Marshals and Constables Purse for fillies and mares, running the six furlongs in 1:09.415 and paying $7.40, $2.80, and $2.40. Atomic Wings returned $2.80 and $2.40, while Eagles Pal paid $3.60.

GOOD LUCK HUG
Dual Exhaust figures to be right in running for $64,200 Kindergarten Purse tonight at Los Alamitos. Good luck hug from Bobalee Johnson might be just what 2-year-old needs.

KENTUCKY DERBY BAROMETER

Kissel Enters Hopeful Pair

Associated Press
The curtain falls on the current meeting at Saratoga today with the 66th running of the $75,000-added Hopeful Stakes and Peter Kissel is hopeful that he has a winner going in the entry of Executioner and Pass Catcher.

Kissel had enough confidence in his two frisky 2-year-olds that he invested $15,000-$7,500 for each horse to enter them as supplemental nominations.

The early line says Kissel is on the right track. The entry, racing under the October House Farms silks, was installed as 3-5 favorite in the eight-horse field.

The 6 1/2-furlong race is often considered an early barometer of the Kentucky Derby and if all eight horses go it will gross $130,950 with $85,118 going to the winner. All will carry 122 pounds.

Elsewhere, 10 horses are going in the $30,000-added Chicago Handicap at Hawthorne with Mr. Clinch top-weighted at 120 pounds and Kerry's Time carrying 117 — second heaviest load. The race is one mile over the turf.

At Rockingham Park, the 11-16-mile White Mountain Handicap lists Boldwood, carrying 121 pounds, as top-weighted. Bill Boland, named after the jockey, was shipped from Saratoga for this one and will carry 119.

Another two-division race is scheduled at Atlantic City in the $20,000-added Pageant Handicap — 1 1/16 miles on the turf.

A Cincinnati Red manager Sparky Anderson contributes fines paid by his ball-players for various and sundry on and off the field activities to charity. But even charity can cause some problems.

"The other day Bernie Carlin was telling me that his wife was asking him why he was getting so many thank you notes from the Heart Fund," said Anderson. "She was wondering why Bernie was making so many contributions."

CASSIUS CLAY was reported Friday ready to make his first appearance in a recognized ring since June 15, 1967. He is scheduled to face two heavyweights in a pair of four-round matches in Atlanta.

LOS ALAMITOS 2-YEAR-OLD CHAMPIONSHIP

In Vogue Prime Contender in Rich Kindergarten Purse

By DAVE DANIEL
Staff Writer

School doesn't open for a couple of weeks, but it's already time for kindergarten — quarter horse style, that is.

The $64,200 Kindergarten Purse is scheduled for Los Alamitos Race Course tonight to decide the 2-year-old championship of the meeting. More than 15,000 fans should be on hand to witness which youngster learned his lessons the best.

Band of Angels, which has won five of seven starts this year, qualified at the head of the class at 20.16 seconds over the 400-yard course last week in the trials.

In Vogue figures as a prime contender despite the fact he was only the sixth-fastest qualifier at 20.41 seconds. In Vogue copped the $128,500 Golden State Futurity at a whopping $124 payoff.

He proved that win, which was over Tru Tru, who's currently basking in the New Mexico sands at Ruidoso Downs in quest of the All-American Futurity title, wasn't a fluke by whipping Band of Angels in the recent Las Ninas purse.

Too Tidy, second to Band of Angels in his heat at 20.22, was the No. 2 qualifier, followed by vastly improved Ruby Khan, which won his heat.

Vessels Stallion Farm has a three-horse entry in Kowton, No Restrainer and Mad Millie to help round out the field, which also includes Dynago Gee, Lady Angela and Dual Exhaust.

The winner will bank $35,310.

A year ago, Go Derussa Go nosed out Quincy A Go Go to capture the $100,000 Los Alamitos quarter horse championship, and Friday night the two horses were one-two in the $8,000 Vandy's Flash.

However, this time, Quincy A Go finished in front of the 9-5 favorite, the margin being a neck. Another nose separated Go Derussa Go and the third horse, Go A Mite.

Quincy A Go, the second riding victory of the evening for Ronald Banks, was clocked in 17.9 seconds for 350 yards. The prices on the winner were $9.20, $4.60 and $4, while Go Derussa Go paid $1 and $3.00. Go A Mite returned $6.80.

Banks also hit with Duster Bar Boy ($15.60) in the fifth. James Dreyer also rode two winners, getting both ends of the $123 nitely double — Frosty Hawk ($9.20) in the first and Liz Baby ($37) in the second.

Australian Scores Upset on Rosemary

SOUTH ORANGE, N.J. (UPI) — Judy Tegart Dalton of Australia upset second-seeded Rosemary Casals of San Francisco, 7-6, 6-0, Friday in the quarterfinals of the $25,000 Marlboro Open tennis championships.

Mrs. Dalton, seeded eighth, will meet fellow Aussie Kerry Melville in one of today's semifinal matches. Miss Melville turned back Helen Gourlay of Australia, 4-6, 6-2, 6-1, in Friday's other women's singles match.

In the men's quarterfinals Ken Rosewall of Australia and Bob Carmichael of France won as expected.

Rosewall crushed Andres Gimeno of Spain, 6-4, 6-2, and Carmichael topped Brian Fairlie of New Zealand, 6-1, 6-8, 6-1. Rosewall and Carmichael will meet in a semifinal match today.

Top-seeded Rod Laver of Australia meets Alexander Metreveli of Russia in the other men's semifinal match while Patti Hogan of La Jolla takes on top-seeded Margaret Smith Court of Australia in the other women's semifinal.

WORLD GAMES SWIM SWEEP

Second Gold Medal for Ivey

TURIN, Italy (UPI) — American swimmers made a clean sweep of the five gold medals at stake in the World University Games Friday, bringing their total to 13 in the three-day-old competition.

The Americans picked up three men's and two women's titles. The Soviet Union remained second in gold medals with four, as Britain picked up another two bronzes and West Germany and Canada won their first medals in the sixth World Games.

Lynn Colella of Seattle won the women's 100-meter butterfly for her second gold medal.

Mitch Ivey of Cal State Long Beach also picked up his second gold medal by winning the 100-backstroke in 59.4.

Beryl Kussner of Sacramento State won the women's 400-free style in 4:43.7 and Steve Power of the University of Washington upset Rick Colella of Seattle to take the men's 400-medley race in 4:46.1.

Don Havens, James McConica, Dave O'Malley and Frank Heckl completed the American sweep by taking the men's 400-free style relay in 3:33.3.

There were no outstanding record performances Friday, but a couple of races caused excitement.

In the women's 100-butterfly, Lynn Colella proved that the American girls were fighting back after a couple of upsets as she edged Mirjana Segrt of Yugoslavia for victory.

Their time was 1:06. Segrt had defeated the American in the 100 freestyle.

Ivey had to come from behind in the 100 backstroke to edge teammate Charles Campbell of Princeton by one-tenth of a second.

The American men's team, so far undefeated in the swimming, appeared on its way to tying its record of 12 victories set in Tokyo in 1967. The swimming events end today.

In the men's basketball tournament, moving through the qualification round, Albania caused a sensation by defaulting against Israel.

An Albanian delegate said his country refused to play against the country that "had invaded Arab territories and refused to withdraw its troops."

The U.S. basketball team advanced to the final round by crushing Senegal, 101-41, in the final game of the Group IV elimination series. Earlier the Americans had beaten France and Denmark.

Leading the Americans in scoring was Ken Davis of Columbus, Ohio, and Bob Ford of Evansville, Ind., each with 16 points.

McLaren Team Favored in Can-Am Challenge Cup

ELKHART LAKE, Wis. (UPI) — The Canadian-American Challenge Cup circuit stages its sixth race Sunday, and it looks as though team McLaren, led by Denis Hulme & Co., will end up on top in the $80,000 Road America event.

Team McLaren and first-place finishes in the rich Can-Am series must be considered on the same level as apple pie and ice cream—insuperable. The McLarens have won 18 successive Can-Am outings, including all five this year.

Hulme and Peter Gethin of England are the McLaren team drivers and each will be behind the wheel of McLaren M8D's.

Lothar Motschenbacher in a McLaren M8B is third behind Hulme and Dan Gurney in the season point standings and Roger McCaig in a McLaren M8C is third.

Major exceptions to the McLaren domination are Lola entered by Chuck Parsons and Peter Revson, the Ferrari of Pedro Rodriguez and the Shadow, an all-new car to be driven by either George Follmer or England's Vic Elford.

Yanks Start Davis Cup Defense While Ashe Calls for Open Play

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Arthur Ashe Jr., saying this may be his last Davis Cup match, was drawn against West Germany's Wilhelm Bungert in the opening singles match today of the 1970 Challenge Round, tennis' world series.

In the second match Cliff Richey, 23-year-old scrapper from San Angelo, Tex., who has never played in a Challenge Round, goes against the challengers' ace, Christian Kuhnke.

It appeared to be a West German draw.

"I think the Germans will be much tougher than the Romanians were a year ago," said Ashe, 27-year-old former U.S. Open champion from Richmond, Va.

Ashe added in an aside that he would not play in the Davis Cup next year unless it is open.

"The Davis Cup without the top contract pros is a travesty and means nothing," the slender Negro star said.

Play starts on the artificial hard court surface of Clark Stadium at 10 a.m. PDT, with a sellout crowd of 7,500 expected.

In the doubles Sunday the Americans will send their champion team, Stan Smith of Pasadena and Bob Lutz of Los Angeles, against the iron man Germans, Bungert and Kuhnke.

"We like the draw," said Ed Turville, non-playing captain of the U.S. team and a St. Petersburg, Fla., attorney. "We start with our most experienced and dependable player, Ashe, and if we can't win under those circumstances, we don't deserve to keep the Cup."

The Germans were delighted with the draw, especially the choice of Richey by the Americans over harder hitting Smith in the singles.

Fred Stolle, the Australian coach of the German team, had said earlier, "If they pick Richey they might as well put the Cup on a plane and send it back to Germany."

INDY DRIVERS ENTER USAC MIDGET RACE

Seven Indianapolis 500 veterans highlight the top caliber field entered in J. C. Agajanian's USAC national championship midget race tonight at Ascot Park in Gardena.

The Indy drivers, in town for the Labor Day California 500 at Ontario, are: Gary Bettenhausen, Bruce Walkup, Bill Vukovich, Larry Dickson, Sam Sessions, Mel Kenyon and George Snider.

A $2,500 first prize will be up for grabs among the 18 fastest cars in the 30-lap main event over Ascot's half-mile clay oval.

Qualifying runs will start at 7:30 and the eight-event racing program will begin at 8:30.

lot of ambition," Jones says. "He hasn't been able to drive as much as Al but he did win at Milwaukee and he's not going to hold anything back for anybody here."

"I found a new way around the track during tire tests," Leonard says. "Also, the car has been working beautifully and about the only thing we'll do is put in a fresh engine."

Even other drivers are in awe of the pair. Leonard, on his 177.2 spin, passed Mark Donohue on one turn and Bobby Unser and Gordon Johncock — no slouches themselves — on another.

Unser was shooting for consistency. With a heavy load of fuel and a racing setup, he turned 20 laps at an average 174 mph.

Jones really doesn't miss driving himself, resisting the temptation of the new track.

"I could say okay, why don't I drive Ontario and Indianapolis," he says, "and then I figure if I do that why don't I run a few others, then what about my businesses?"

Jones is a Firestone dealer and a partner in a Ford dealership.

"I run the Trans-Am series for Ford because we're getting a little help here," he explains.

Parnelli wouldn't predict a pole speed.

"It depends a great deal on the weather factor here," he says. "The wind and the heat can affect the speeds as much as 3 or 4 mph."

PIT PATTERN: Australia's Jack Brabham, who has been shoving down his own turbocharged Offenhauser all week, apparently has decided to let Lee Roy Yarborough run it Sept. 6 while he goes to Monza to fulfill a Grand Prix commitment. . . . Indy veteran Gordon Johncock finally got going in his own McLaren offy, turning a quick 174 mph, the 2nd driver over 170 mph in practice. . . . The pole winner will receive the Sears Trophy and a $5,000 cash award, plus up to $12,500 total cash and prizes depending on his sponsor's awards.

Following Ruby off the line at 10 a.m. today will be Sears, Gary Bettenhausen, Larry Dickson, Jerry Grant, Bob Harvey, A.J. Foyt, Bill Simpson, Johnny Rutherford, Donohue, Jim Hurtulise, Mario Andretti, Bill Vukovich and Bobby Unser. Other contenders are Yarborough, 19th; Johncock, 22nd; Peter Revson, 36th, and last of all, Dan Gurney, 46th. . . . Revson's cool could cause him to anxiously he qualifies Friday for Sunday's Can-Am, so if he doesn't get to the line today he could hardly qualify Sunday if he has to race at Elkhart, Wis., or vice-versa. . . . Forty-one cars practiced Friday. Andretti got his troubled McLaren up to 173 mph for a lap.

FRANCE LOST IN FOG Gretel II Sweeps Cup Elimination

NEWPORT, R.I. (UPI) — Jim Hardy whipped Australia's Gretel II through a dense fog for one of the biggest margins of victory in America's Cup history Friday when France got lost in the fog and abandoned the race.

The victory gave Gretel a four-race sweep of its elimination series and the right to challenge the U.S. for the America's Cup next month.

Gretel finished at 5:33 p.m. and the France, giving up hope of finding its way home at all, announced it was abandoning its efforts 42 minutes later.

The biggest margin in America's Cup competition when both yachts finished was 100 years ago when Magic beat Cambria by 39 minutes. Gretel's margin would have been even bigger if France had finished.

Only twice in actual

America's Cup competition have yachts failed to finish the course and those were before the cup series went to the 12-meter formula in 1958.

Baron Marcel Bich, the 55-year-old millionaire owner of the France, took the blame. Watching his five-year, million-dollar effort winding up in futility, he had taken over as skipper so he could be "solely responsible" for the outcome of the race.

The start was actually a complete fiasco with both boats jumping the gun, but the France went so far over the line it had to use a spinaker to get back to cross again.

On the third leg, France was able to cut into Gretel's lead, closing to within 4:44, but then disaster struck as the French navigator apparently lost course in the dense mist.

Not even the Coast Guard was sure of what happened to France and rather frantic calls went out on the radio trying to locate her so they could clear a path through the spectator boats.

Gretel now will challenge the winner of an elimination series currently going on between Intrepid and Valiant in an effort to wrest the America's Cup from the United States for the first time and take it back to Australia.

The American crews on Intrepid and Valiant had the day off from racing Friday, but went out for shakedown cruises to prepare for today's races.

Intrepid, after losing the first race of the final elimination series, has now taken four in a row from Valiant.

Wishnick Pick in Catalina Run

MARINA DEL REY — North America's oldest trophy for offshore powerboat racing will be at stake this morning when a modern-day record fleet of 26 boats departs the Marina del Rey breakwater for the start of the Catalina Challenge Trophy race.

Favorite among 10 contending Offshore Class racers attempting a 184-mile course is Bill Wishnick of New York, who virtually wrapped up the AJBA crown two weeks ago by driving his 32-foot, MerCruiser-powered Boss O'Nova to a record-setting victory in the annual Long Beach Hennessy Cup world championship race, averaging 62.2 mph.

'Impossible' Wins Spot on Saturday

By TERRY VERNON

That big contest mentioned earlier for the Saturday night race has been won three weeks before it gets underway.

The winner for opening night — the Impossible Missions Force!

This does not mean, however, that CBS will get the viewers' nod for its shift of "Mission: Impossible" opposite Andy Williams.

But Andy's producers, Allan Blye and Chris Beard, have scored the coup of the season by signing erstwhile IMF agents Rollin Hand and Cinnamon for the first confrontation.

Emmy-winning Barbara Bain and Martin Landau join the Supremes on Andy's Sept. 19 opener against their former colleagues, along with what NBC terms "a noted surprise visitor".

That last one has us guessing.

Our first thought was that it might be one of Andy's many Kennedy friends, but then ABC attorneys had that network cancel a scheduled "Movie of the Week" repeat on Robert F. Kennedy because of political figures shown who now are involved in election races.

But we suppose it could be a Kennedy-turned-Onassis.

SCHEDULED to debut in January, "Wednesday Night" will be a 90-minute magazine-format show that will include an investigative sports report by a well-known sportscaster, an examination of television and the press, performances by a resident satire company, and a weekly ecology report called "What Have We Done to Our Planet Lately?"

"Realities" is another upcoming series, dealing with documentaries and non-performance specials, including a look at a community through the eyes of Marya Mannes, a series on noted film directors, a profile of the modern

HAVING reported the new season for three commercial networks, it seems only fair to turn to the fourth network — PBS (Public Broadcasting Service).

Too many times does an employer take his staff for granted on the seemingly accepted premise that no one is so intelligent or talented that his performance on the job would defy duplication.

However, the man known as the "Human Cannonball," a performer who was shot out of a huge cannon — landing in a net about 100 yards away, seems to be the only one to refute this popular belief.

Despite the fact he was highly temperamental and took offence at the slightest provocation, the owner of the circus didn't dare fire him!

When pressed for an explanation of his preferential treatment to this performer when he was abusive to many, he replied, "I just can't bring myself to fire him — where would I find another man of his calibre?"

The Peabody award-winning "The Advocates" returns Oct. 6 with investigation of issues ranging from the admission of Red China to the United Nations, to whether major league baseball teams should be allowed to trade players at will.
